Familiar Words:

AN INDEX VERBORUM

OII

QUOTATION HANDBOOK,
WITH PARALLEL PASSAGES, OF PHRASES
WHICH HAVE BECOME IMBEDDED
IN OUR ENGLISH TONGUE.

BY J. HAIN FRISWELL,

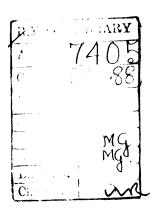

AUTHOR OF "ESSAYS ON ENGLISH WRITERS," ETC.

THIRD EDITION, WITH SUPPLEMENT AND ENTIRELY NEW VERBAL INDEX.

LONDON:

SAMPSON LOW, SON, AND MARSTON, CROWN BUILDINGS, 188, FLEET STREET. 1874.

CHIBWICK PRESS: - PRINTED BY WHITTINGHAM AND WILKINS, TOOKS COURT, CHANCKRY LANE.

PREFACE.

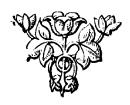

HE third edition of "Familiar Words" has been long demanded, and, owing to the compiler's illness, long in preparation. It is trusted that the book has not lost thereby, since day by day some familiar phrase, to be traced only in the course of varied reading, has been found and added to an already extensive collection. Every lover of literature will appreciate the labour of collection, and the delicacy of the task of selecting quotations that are really part of our common tongue, and not mere citations, however beautiful, from poets and prose writers. has been carefully kept in mind, and parallel passages and originals or echoes of phrases so valuable to students, sought for and appended. The hints of critics have been taken, improvements everywhere adopted, but the original form of alphabetical subject quotation adhered to, as, although troublesome and much more expensive as regards printing, it was thought more suggestive and pleasant to scholars than the mere presentation of a mottled slice of each A supplement with some thousand quotations has been added, and these will be found, whether from Poet, Statesman, or Divine, to be "familiar words." An entirely new verbal index, nearly as full as a concordance, has been made, and to afford space for it, the list of nearly a thousand English and foreign authors' names from whom we have cited has been taken away.

In the first and second editions the compiler made grateful acknowledgement of the help he had received, the kindness of the public and the critics, and of the labours of others of which, as all compilers must, he had availed himself, although the first edition was by far the fullest dictionary of English quotation that had then appeared. Of that edition a literary contemporary declared that it was "worthy to take its place by the side of Roget's Thesaurus on every scholarly author's desk." Certainly, if that were true, this edition, amended and much enlarged, is still more worthy, and that it is so the Public has to be thanked for the warm encouragement it has given the compiler in his humble but somewhat trying labours.

JOHNSON, Vanity of Human Wishes, 1, 221.

Adorn—A poet, naturalist, and historian, who left scarcely any style of writing untouched, and touched nothing that he did not adorn.*

Jourson, Epitaph on Goldsmith.

Adulteries—Give me a look, give me a face,

That makes simplicity a grace:

Robes loosely flowing, hair as free: Such sweet neglect more taketh me

Than all th' adulteries of art:

They strike mine eyes, but not my heart.

BEN JONSON, The Silent Woman, act i. sc. 1.

Adversary—Oh . . . that mine adversary had written a book.†

Job xxxi. 25.

Adversary—Bo sober, be vigilant; because your adversary, the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour.

1 Peter v. 8.

Adversity—Sweet are the uses of adversity,
Which, like the toad, ugly and venomous,
Wears yet a precious jewel in his head; ‡
And this our life, exempt from public haunt,
Finds tongues in trees, books in the running brooks,
Sermons in stones, and good in everything.

SHAKS. As You Like It, act ii. sc. 1.

Adversity-A man I am, cross'd with adversity.

After—After me the deluge. Après moi le déluge. Attributed to Mad. de Pompadour; see Notes and Queries, 3rd S. p. 301.

Agate-stone—O, then, I see, Queen Mab hath been with you.

She is the fairies' midwife; and she comes
In shape no bigger than an agate-stone
On the forefinger of an alderman,
Drawn with a team of little atomies
Athwart men's noses as they lie asleep.

Shaks. Romeo and Juliet, act i. sc. 4.

Age—Just at the age 'twixt boy and youth,
When thought is speech and speech is truth.

Scott, Marmion, can. ii. introd.

Age—The weariest and most loathed worldly life
That age, ache, penury, and imprisonment
Can lay on nature is a paradise
To what we fear of death. Shaks. Meas. for Meas., act iii. sc. 1.

Goldsmith, Deserted Village, 1. 13.

Aye—Old age comes on apace to ravage all the clime.

BEATTIE, Minstrel, v. 25.

Age— His hair just grizzled,
As in a green old age. Dryven, Œdipus, act iii. sc. 1.

Age—He was not of an age, but for all time.

Ben Jonson, To the Memory of Shakspeare.

Age—In a good old age.

Gen. xv. 15.

Age—Therefore my age is as a lusty winter,
Frosty, but kindly.
Sushs. As You Like It, act ii. sc. s.

Age—The age is grown so picked, that the toe of the peasant comes so near the heel of the courtier, he galls his kibe.

SHAKS. Hamlet, act v. sc. 1.

Age—The choice and master spirits of this age.
Shaks. Julius Casar, act iii. sc. 1.

Age—See how the world its veterans rewards!

A youth of frolies, an old age of cards.

Pore, Moral Essays, ep. ii. l. 242.

Age—I thought ten thousand swords must have leaped from their scabbards to avenge even a look that threatened her (Marie Antoinette) with insult. But the age of chivalry is gone.

Burke, On the French Revolution.

Age—How blest is he who crowns, in shades like these,
A youth of labour with an age of ease!
Goldsmith, Deserted Village, l. 99.

Age—Some smack of age in you, some relish of the saltness of Time.

Shars. Henry IV, part ii. act i. sc. 2.

Age—What find you better or more honourable than age? Take the pro-eminence of it in everything; in an old friend, in old wine, in an old pedigree.

SHAKERLY MARMION, Antiquary, act ii. sc. 1.

Age—But an old age serene and bright, And lovely as a Lapland night, Shall lead thee to thy grave.

WORDSWORTH, To a Young Lady, xxxvi.

Age—She, though in full-blown flower of glorious beauty, Grows cold even in the summer of her age.

DRYDEN, Œdipus, act iv. sc. 1.

Age—One crowded hour of glorious life
Is worth an age without a name.

Scott, Old Mortality, vol. ii. chap. xxi.

Age—An age that melts in unperceived decay, And glides in modest innocence away.

Johnson, Vanay of Human Wishes, 1, 293.

Ages—Enflamed with the study of learning, and the admiration of virtue; stirred up with high hopes of living to be brave men and worthy patriots, dear to God, and famous to all ages.

Militon, Trustate of Education

Ages—I the heir of all the ages, in the foremost files of time.

Tennyson, Locksley Hall.

Ages—Once, in the flight of ages past,
There lived a man.

J. Montgomeny, The Common Lot.

One man in his time plays many parts, Ayes— His acts being seven ages. At first the infant, Mewling and puking in the nurse's arms: And then the whining school-boy, with his satchel, And shining morning face, creeping like snail Unwillingly to school. And then the lover, Sighing like furnace, with a woeful ballad Made to his mismess' eyebrow. Then a soldier, Full of strange oaths, and bearded like the pard: Jealous in honour, sudden and quick in quarrel, Seeking the bubble reputation Even in the cannon's mouth. And then the justice: In fair round belly, with good capon lined, With eyes severe, and beard of formal cut, Full of wise saws and modern instances; And so he plays his part. The sixth age shifts Into the lean and slipper'd pantaloon; With spectacles on nose, and pouch on side;

His youthful hose well saved, a world too wide for his shrunk shank; and his hig manly voice, Turning again toward childish trable, pipes And whistles in his sound. Last scene of all, That ends this strange, eventful history, Is second childishness and mere oblivion; Sans teeth, sans eyes, sans taste, sans everything.

SHARS. As You Like It, act ii. sc. 7.

Ages—Yet I doubt not thro' the ages one increasing purpose runs.

And the thoughts of men are widen'd with the process of the suns.

Tennyson, Locksley Hall, Poems, p. 270.

Wakens the slumbering ages.

II. TAYLOR, Van Artevelde, act i. sc. 7.

Agony - [Peath,] thou art terrible—the tear,
The Brown, the knell, the pall, the beer;

And all we know, or dream, or fear

Of agony are thine. HALLECK, Marco Bozzaris.

Agree—Where they do agree on the stage, their unanimity is wonderful. Sheridan, The Critic, act ii. sc. 2

Ahriman and Ormuzd—"I do honour to Ahrimanes." THACKERAY.

The first was the principle of evil; the second, that of good: the first is created, and will one day perish; the second is eternal, and will eventually conquer in the conflict.

Ancient Pers. Mythology.

Aidenn—Tell this soul with sorrow laden, if, within the distant

It shall clasp a sainted maiden, whom the angels name Lenore.

Poe, The Raven.

Air When he speaks;

The air, a charter'd libertine, is still.

SHAKS. K. Henry V, act i. sc. 1.

Air—And, like a dew-drop from the lion's mane,

Be shook to air. Shaks. Troilus and Cressida, act iii. sc. s.

Aidenn, an Anglicised and disguised way of spelling the Arabic form of the word Eden. See Wheeler's "Noted Names of Fiction."

Air—Nor do not saw the air too much with your hand, thus.
Shaks. Hamlet, act iii. sc. ...

Air—The air is full of farewells to the dying,
And mournings for the dead.

Longfellow, Resignation.

Air—Ere he can spread his sweet leaves to the air, Or dedicate his beauty to the sun.

SHAKS. Romeo and Juliet, act i. sc. 1.

Air—Our revels now are ended: these our actors,
As I foretold you, were all spirits, and
Are melted into air, into thin air:
And, like the baseless fabric of this vision,
The cloud-capp'd towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself,
Yea, all which it inherit, shall dissolve,
And, like this insubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack* behind. We are such stuff
As dreams are made on, and our little life
Is rounded with a sleep.

Shaks. Tempest, act iv. sc. 1.

Air-Mocking the air with colours idly spread.

SHAKS. K. John, act v. sc. 1.

Air—Beholding the bright countenance of truth in the quiet and still air of delightful studies.

MILTON, Reason of Church Government, bk. ii.

Airy— The lover, all as frantic,
Sees Helen's beauty in a brow of Egypt.
The poet's eye, in a fine frenzy rolling,
Doth glance from heaven to earth, from earth to heaven,
And, as imagination bodies forth
The forms of things unknown, the poet's pen
Turns them to chapes, and gives to airy nothing
A local habitation and a name.

SHARS. Mid. Night's Dream, act v. 8c. 1.

Airy— A thousand fantasies

Begin to throng into my memory,

Of calling shapes, and beckoning shadows dire,

And airy tongues, that syllable men's names

On sands, and shores, and desert wildernesses.

Milton, Comus, 1. 205.

^{*} So in the original, but Mr. Dyce reads "wreck."

Airy—Society became my glittering bride,
And airy hopes my children. Wordsworth, Excursion, bk. iii.

Aisle—Where, through the long-drawn aisle and fretted vault,
The pealing anthem swells the note of praise.

Gray, Elega in a Country Churchus

Gray, Elegy in a Country Churchyard.

Aisles—The hand that rounded Peter's dome, And groined the aisles of Christian Rome.

R. W. EMERSON, The Problem.

Ajax—The sound must seem an echo to the sense:
Soft is the strain when Zephyr gently blows,
And the smooth stream in smoother numbers flows;
But, when loud surges lash the sounding shore.
The house, rough verse should like the torrent roar;
When Ajax strives some rock's vast weight to throw,
The line too labours, and the words move slow;
Not so when swift Camilla scours the plain,
Flies o'er th' unbending corn, and skims along the main.
Pope, Essay on Criticism, pt. ii. 1. 265.

Alabaster—Why should a man, whose blood is warm within,
Sit like his grandsire cut in alabaster?
SHAKS. Mer. of Venice, act i. sc. 1.

Algbaster—Nor scar that whiter skin of hers than snow, And smooth as monumental alabaster. Shaks. Oth., act v. sc. 2.

Alacrity—I have a kind of alacrity in sinking.
Shaks. Merry Wives of Windsor, act iii. sc. 5.

Alcestis—Methought I saw my late espoused saint
Brought to me like Alcestis from the grave. Milton, Sonnets.

Aldiborontiphoscophornio—A character in Henry Carey's play of Chrononhotonthologos, who has, as Sir Walter Scott says, "a frections friend Rigdum Funnidos." The words are often introduced and the characters alluded to in literature.

Alexandrine—A needless Alexandrine ends the song,
That, like a wounded snake, drags its slow length along.
Pope, Essay on Criticism, pt. ii. 1. 856.

Alike—Alike all ages. Dames of ancient days
Have led their children through the mirthful maze,
And the gay grandsire, skill'd in gestic lore,
Has frisk'd beneath the burden of threescore.

GOLDSMITH, Traveller, 1. 251.

12 ALL.

All—Let greatness of her glassy sceptres vaunt—

Not sceptres, no; but reeds, soon bruised, soon broken: And let this worldly pomp our wits enchant;

All fudes and scarcely leaves behind a token.

EARL OF STIRLING, Darius.

All—All nature is but art, unknown to thee;

All chance, direction, which thou canst not see;

All discord, harmony not understood:

All partial evil, universal good;

And, spite of pride, in erring reasons spite,

One truth is clear: Whatever is, is right.

Pope, Essay on Man, ep. i. l. 289.

All—Or shear swine, all cry and no wool.

BUTLER, Hudibras, pt. i. can. i. l. 852.

All—Of which all Europe rings, from side to side.

MILTON, Sonnet xxii.

All—All in the Downs the fleet was moored.

J. GAY, Black-eyed Susan.

All-What though the field be lost, All is not lost; the unconquerable will, And study of revenge, immortal hate, And courage never to submit or yield.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, bk. i. l. 105.

- All—"All the Talents." A name given at first by its admirers, and afterwards in derision, to Lord Grenville's ministry, formed on the death of Pitt, June, 1806. Fox, Sheridan, and Windham were members of it.
- All—He ascribed to the interested views of themselves or their relations the declarations of pretended patriots, of whom he said, All those men have their price.

SIR R. WALPOLE, From Coxe's Mem. of Walpole, vol. iii. p. 389.

All—All that's bright must fade,—

The brightest still the fleetest;

All that's sweet was made

But to be lost when sweetest.

MOORE, Nat. Airs.

All-Prove all things; hold fast that which is good. 1 Thess. v. 21.

All-All things that are,

Are with more spirit chased than enjoy'd.

Shaks. Mer. of Venice, act ii. sc. c.

All-I am made all things to all men.

1 Cor. ix. 22.

All—And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God.

Rom. viii. 28.

All-All men think all men mortal but themselves.

Young, Night Thoughts, night i. 1. 425.

All = All thoughts, all passions, all delights,

Whatever stars this mortal frame,

All are but ministers of Love,

And feed his sacred flame. Coleringe, Love, vol. i. p. 145.

All-Still in thy right hand carry gentle peace,

To silence envious tongues. Be just, and fear not;

Let all the ends they aim'st at he they country's,

Thy God's, and truth's. Shaks. K. Henry VIII, act iii. sc. 2.

All—For all we know

Of what the blessed do above

Is that they sing and that they love.*

WALLER, Song to Chloris.

All—And all we met was fair and good,

And all was good that time could bring,

And all the secrets of the spring

Tennyson, In Memoriam, xxiii.

Allegory—As headstrong as an allegory on the banks of the Nile.
SHERIDAN, The Rivals, act v. sc. s.

Powers that will work for thee, -air, earth, and skies;

There's not a breathing of the common wind

That will forget thee; thou hast great allies;

Thy friends are exultations, agonies,

And love, and man's unconquerable mind.

WORDSWORTH, Son. to Toussaint L'Ouverture, pt. i. s.

Allured-Allured to brighter worlds, and led the way.

Golosmith, Deserted Village, I. 16.

Almighty—The almighty dollar—that great object of universal devotion throughout our land! W. IRVING, The Creole Village.

Thus quoted in Lady Rachel Russell's "Letter to Earl Galway, on Friendship:"—

[&]quot; All we know they do above Is that they sing and that they love."

Almighty—These as they change, Almighty Father, these
Are but the varied God! The rolling year
Is full of Thee.
Thomson, Hymn, 1. 1.

Alms—But when thou doest alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth.

Matt. vi. 3.

Alone—Alone, that worn-out word,
So coldly spoken and so idly heard;
Yet all that poets tell or grief hath known
Of hearts laid waste dwells in that word alone.
Bulwer, New Timon.

Alone—Then, never less alone than when alone.

Rogers, Human Life.

Alone—They are never alone that are accompanied with noble thoughts.

SIR P. SIDNEY, Arcadia, bk. i.

Alone—Alone, alone, all, all alone, Alone on a wide, wide sea.

Coleridge, The Ancient Mariner, pt. iv.

Alone—It is not good that the man should be alone. Gen. ii. 18.

Alone—We carved not a line, and we raised not a stone,
But we left him alone with his glory!
C. Wolfe, The Burial of Sir J. Moore.

Alone—I, measuring his affections by my own,

That most are busied when they're most alone.

Shaks. Romeo and Juliet, act i. sc. 1.

Alp.—O'er many a frozen, many a fiery Alp,
Rocks, caves, lakes, fens, bogs, dens, and shades of death.
Million, Paradise Lost, bk. ii. l. cs.

Alpha—I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last.

Rev. xxii. 13.

Alps—Hills peep o'er hills, and Alps on Alps arise.

Pope, Essay on Criticism, pt. ii. l. 22.

Alraschid—For it was in the golden prime
Of good Haroun Alraschid.

Tennyson, Rec. of the Arabian Nights.

Alsatia—The furious German comes, with his clarious and his drums, His bravees of Alsatia, * and pages of Whitehall.

MACAULAY, Ballads.

Altars-Strike for your altars and your fires! Strike for the green graves of your sires,

Halleck, Marco Bozzaris. God, and your native land!

Alteration-Let me not to the marriage of true minds

Admit impediments. Love is not love

SHARS. Sonnet cxvi. Which alters when it alteration finds.

Alway-I would not live alway.

Job vii. 16.

Amalthea—Flowed like an Amalthea's horn. CARLYLE, Frederick.

Amalthea was the goat that suckled Jupiter; one of the horns broken off was so endowed that it became a cornucopia, an everlasting horn of plenty.

Amber—Pretty! in amber to observe the forms Of hairs, or straws, or dirt, or grubs, or worms! The things, we know, are neither rich nor rare, But wonder how the devil they got there.

Pope, Ep. to Dr. Arbuthnot, l. 169.

Ambition—But wild ambition loves to slide, not stand, And fortune's ice prefers to virtue's land.

THOMSON, Autumn, 1. 2.

Autumn—Yellow autumn, wreathed with nodding corn.

Burns, Brigs of Ayr.

Avon—As thou these ashes, little Brook! wilt bear Into the Avon, Avon to the tide

Of Severn, Severn to the narrow seas,
Into the main ocean they, this deed accursed
An emblem yields to friends and enemies,
How the bold Teacher's doctrine, sanctified
By truth, shall spread throughout the world dispersed.

WORDSWORTH, To Wickliff.

Awake—Awake! arise! or be for ever fallen.

Milton, Paradise Lost, bk. i. l. 330.

Awe—I cannot tell what you and other men
Think of this life; but, for my single self,
I had as lief not be as live to be
In awe of such a thing as I myself. Shars. Jul. Ca. act i. sc. 2.

Awful— 'Tis as the general pulse
Of life stood still and nature made a pause,
An awful pause. Young, Night Thoughts, Complaint, 1. 23.

Axe—And now also the axe is laid unto the root of the trees.

Luke iii. 9.

Axe—When I see a merchant over-polite to his customers, begging them to take a little brandy, and throwing his goods on the counter, thinks I, that man has an axe to grind.

BABBLED-BACK.

ABBI.ED-Bubbled of green fields.

Saves. K. Henry V, act ii. sc. s.

Bahe - Cold on Constian hills or Minden's plain,
Perhaps the parent mourned her soldier slain;
Bent over her habe, her eye dissolved in dew;
The big drops, mingling with the milk he drew.
Gave the sad presage of his future years,
The child of misery, baptized in teas.

J. LANGHORNE, The Country Justice, pt. i.

Baby—Baby fingers, waxen touches, press me from the mother's breast.

Tennyson, Locksley Hall.

Baby—The Public! why, the Public's nothing better than a great baby!

Chalmers, Letters.

Bachelor.—When I said I would die a bachelor, I did not think I should live till I were married.

SHAKS. Much Ado about Nothing, act ii. sc. 3.

Back-Back and side, go bare, go bare,

Both foot and hand, go cold;

But, belly, God send thee good ale enough,

Whether It be new or old.

BP. STILL, Gammer Gurton's Needle, act ii.

Back—The man that hails you Tom or Jack,

And proves by thumps upon your back

How he esteems your merit,

Is such a friend that one had need Be very much his friend indeed

To pardon or to bear it.

COWPER, Friendship.

Back—With his back to the field, and his feet to the fee.

CAMPBELL, Lochiel's Warning.

Backing—Call you that backing of your friends? A plague upon such backing! Shaks. K. Henry IV, part i. act ii. sc. 4.

Bad—High on a throne of royal state—which far
Outshone the wealth of Ormuz and of Ind,
Or where the gorgeous East with richest hand
Showers on her kings barbaric, pearl and gold—
Satan exalted sat, by merit raised
To that bad eminence. Milton, Paradise Lost, bk. ii. l. 1.

Badge—Sufferance is the badge of all our tribe.
Shars. Mer. of Venice, act i. sc. 3.

Bane—The bane of all that dread the devil.

WORDSWORTH, The Idiot Boy.

Bank—I know a bank where the wild thyme blows,
Where oxlips and the nodding violet grows.

Shake. Midsummer-Night's Dream, act ii. sc. 1.

Bankrupt—Bankrupt of life, yet prodigal of case.

Dryden, Absolom and Achitophel.

Bankrupt—What a bankrupt am I made
Of a full stock of blessings! Ford, Perk. Warbeck, act iii. sc. 2.

Banish—Banish plump Jack, and banish all the world.

SHAKS. K. Henry IV, part i. act ii. sc. 4.

Bunner—The star-spangled bunner, O, long may it wave
O'er the land If the free and the home of the brave!
F. S. Kry, The Star-spangled Banner.

Banners—Hang out our banners on the outward walls;
The cry is still "They come!" Our castle's strength
Will laugh a siege to scorn. Shaks. Macbeth, act v. sc. s.

Banquet—I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet-hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed.

Moorn, Oft in the Stilly Night.

Banquet—She comes a-reckoning when the banquet's o'er,
The dreadful reckoning, and men smile no more.

Barleycorn—Inspiring bold John Barleycorn, What dangers thou canst make us scorn!

R. Burns, Tam O'Shanter.

Barnacle—The Barnacle Family had for some time helped to administer the Circumlocution Office... They were dispersed all over the public offices, and held all sorts of public places. Either the nation was under a load of obligation to the Barnacles, or the Barnacles were under a load of obligation to the nation. It was not quite unanimously settled which; the Barnacles having their opinion, and the nation theirs.

CHARLES DICKENS, Little Dorrit, ch. x.

Barren—Upon my head they placed a fruitless crown,
And put a barren sceptre in my gripe;
Thence to be wrenched with an unlineal hand,
No son of mine succeeding.

Shars. Macbeth, act iii. sc. 1.

Base—Is base in kind, and born to be a slave.

COWPER, Table Talk.

Base—Base is the slave that pays.

SHARS. K. Henry V, act ii. sc. 1.

Base-To what base uses we may return, Horatio!

SHAKS. Hamlet, act v. sc. 1.

Battlements—With battlements, that on their restless fronts
Bore stars. Wordsworth, The Excursion, bk. ii.

Battles—Soothed with the sound, the king grew vain, Fought all his battles o'er again;

DRYDEN, Alexander's Feast, 1. 66.

Britles— The battles, sieges, fortunes,
That I have passed. Shaks. Othello, act i. sc. 3.

Bay—I had rather be a dog, and bay the moon,
Than such a Roman.
Shars. Julius Cæsar, act iv. sc. s.

Be—In words, as fashions, the same rule will hold, Alike fantastic, if too new or old: Be not the first by whom the new are tried, Nor yet the last to lay the old aside.

Pope, An Essay on Criticism, pt. ii. l. 133.

Be—Be of good cheer: it is I: be not afraid.

Matt. xiv. 27.

Be—Be of good cheer: it is I; be not afraid.

Me
Be—Be plain in dress, and sober in your diet;

In short, my deary, kiss me! and be quiet.

LADY M. W. MONTAGU.*

Be—Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar.

The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel.

SHARS. Hamlet, act i. sc. s.

Be—Be to her virtues very kind;
Be to her faults a little blind.

PRIOR, An English Padlock.

Be—Be wise to-day; 'tis madness to defer.

Young, Night Thoughts, night i. 1, 300.

Be wise with speed:

A fool at forty is a fool indeed.

Young, Love of Fame, satire ii. l. 281.

Called by her "A Summary of Lord Lyttelton's Advice to a Lady."
 "The counsels of a friend, Belinda, hear," &c.

Be-Be wisely worldly, but not worldly wise.

Francis Quarles, Emblems, bk. ii. l. 2.

Be—To be, or not to be: that is the question:—
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune,
Or to take arms against a sea of troubles,
And, by opposing, end them? To die: to sleep;
No more;—and, by a sleep, to say we end
The heart-ache, and the thousand natural shocks
That flesh is heir to; 'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wished. To die, to sleep;
To sleep: perchance to dream;—ay, there's the rub;
For in that sleep of death what dreams may come,
When we have shuffled off this mortal coil,
Must give us pause.

Shaks. Hamlet, act iii. sc. 1.

Beadle—A very beadle to a humorous sigh.

Shaks. Love's Labour's Lost, act iii. sc. 1.

Beads—Behold the child, by Nature's kindly law,
Pleased with a rattle, tickled with a straw:
Some livelier plaything gives his youth delight,
A little louder, but as empty quite;
Scarfs, garters, gold, amuse his riper stage,
And beads and prayer-books are the toys of age:
Pleased with this bauble still, as that before,
Till tired he sleeps, and life's poor play is o'er.
Pope, Essay on Man, Ep. ii. 1. 275.

Bear—Should such a man, too fond to rule alone,
Bear, like the Turk, no brother near the throne.
Pope, Ep. to Dr. Arbuthnot, Prol. to the Satires, 1. 191.

Bear— Ye Gods, it doth amaze me,
A man of such a feeble temper should
So get the start of the majestic world
And bear the palm alone. Shaks. Julius Casar, act i. sc. 2.

CANNING, Anti-Jacobin, p. 44.

Bear—To bear is to conquer our fate.

Down to Diogenes' sandals.

CAWTHORNE, Birth and Education of Genius.

Beard— Such a beard as youth gave out
Had left in ashes. Tennyson, Idylls of King Vivien.

Beard—Loose his beard, and hoary hair
Streamed like a meteor to the troubled air.
GRAY, The Bard, pt. i. st. 2.

Beard— And dar'st thou then
To beard the lion in his den,
The Douglas in his hall? Scorr, Marmion, can. vi. st. 14.

Beards—'Tis merry in hall When beards wag all.

T. Tusser, Five Hund. Points of Good Husbandry, ch. xlvi.

Reast—It is a familiar beast to man, and signifies—love.

Shars. Merry Wives of Windsor, act i. sc. 1.

Reast—More upward working out the beast,
And let the ape and tiger die.

TENNYSON, In Memoriam, can. cxvii. v. 7.

Beast—K righteous man regardeth the life of his beast; but the tender mercies of the wicked are cruel.

Prov. xii. 10.

Beast—A beast, that wants discourse of reason.

Shaks. Hamlet, act i. sc. 2.

Beaumont—Renowned Spenser, lie a thought more nigh
To learned Chaucer, and rare Beaumont lie
A little nearer Spenser, to make room
For Shakspeare in your threefold, fourfold tomb.
WILL. BASSE, On Shakspeare.

Beaumont— Soul of the age!

The applause, delight, the wonder of our stage!

My Shakspeare, rise! I will not lodge thee by

Chaucer, or Spenser, or bid Beaumont lie

A little further, to make thee a room.

Ben Jonson, To the Memory of Shaks.

Beauties—So stands the statue that enchants the world,
So bending tries to veil the matchless boast,
The mingled beauties of exulting Greece.
Thomson, The Seasons, Summer, 1. 1346.

Beauties—The pale unripened beauties of the North.

Addison, Cato, act i. sc. 1.

Beauties-You meaner beauties of the night,

That poorly satisfy our eyes

More by your number than your light.

SIR H. WOTTON, To his Mistress, the Queen of Bohemia.

Beautiful—She's beautiful; and therefore to be wooed:

She is a woman; therefore to be won.

SHAKS. King Henry VI, part i. act v. sc. s.

Beautiful— Beautiful as sweet;

And young as beautiful; and soft as young;

And gay as soft; and innocent as gay.

Young, Night Thoughts, night iii. 1. si.

Beautiful-If God hath made this world so fair,

Where sin and death abound,

How beautiful beyond compare

Will Paradise be found!

J. Montgomery, The Earth full of God's Goodness.

Beautiful—Beautiful tyrant! fiend angelical!

SHAKS. Romeo and Juliet, act iii. sc. 2.

Beautifully-The air and harmony of shape express,

Fine by degrees, and beautifully less. PRIOR, Henry and Emma.

Beauty-And beauty immortal awakes from the tomb.

BEATTIE, Hermit.

Its loveliness increases; it will never

Pass into nothingness.

J. KEATS, Endymion, l. 1.

Beauty—'Tis beauty calls and glory leads the way.

NATH. LEE, Alexander the Great, act ii. sc. 2.

Beauty—Fair tresses man's imperial raco ensnare,

And beauty draws us with a single hair.

Pope, The Rape of the Lock, can. ii. l. 27

Beauty-Fills the air around with beauty.

Byron, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, can. iv. st. 49.

Beauty—To give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness.

Isàiah lxi. s.

Beauty—'Tis not a lip, or eye, we beauty call, But the joint force and full result of all.

Pope, Essay on Criticism, 1. 245.

Beauty-He hath a daily beauty in his life.

SHARS. Othello, act v. sc. 1.

Beauty—Underneath this stone doth lie As much beauty as could die:

Which in life did harbour give To more virtue than doth live.

BEN JONSON, Epitaph on Elizabeth.

Beauty-Beauty is but a flower,

Which wrinkles will devour.

THOMAS NASH, Summer's Last Will and Testament, 1. 600.

Beauty—Beauty, like wit, to judges should be shown; Both most are valued where they best are known.

LYTTELTON, Soliloguy of a Beauty, I. n.

Beauty—Beauty is truth, truth beauty,—that is all Ye know on earth, and all ye need to know.

J. Keats, Ode on a Grecian Urn.

Beauty—He who hath bent him o'er the dead

Ere the first day of death is fled,

The first dark day of nothingness,

The last of danger and distress,

Before Decay's effacing fingers

Have swept the lines where beauty lingers.

Byron, The Giaour, 1. 68.

Beauty-For where is any author in the world

Teaches such beauty as a woman's eye?

Learning is but an adjunct to ourself.

SHAKS. Love's Labour's Lost, act iv. sc. 3.

Beauty—She walks in beauty, like the night

Of cloudless climes and starry skies;

And all that's best of dark and bright

Meet in her aspect and her eyes: Thus mellowed to that tender light

Which heaven to gaudy day denies.

Byron, Hebrew Melodies.

Beauty-Like pensive Beauty smiling in her tears.

CAMPBELL, Pleasures of Hope, pt. ii. l. 25.

Beauty—'Tis beauty truly blent, whose red and white

Nature's own sweet and cunning hand laid on.

SHAKS. Twelfth Night, act i. sc. s.

Beauty—It is not beauty I demand,
A crystal brow, the moon's despair,
Nor the snow's daughter, a white hand,
Nor mermaid's yellow pride of hair. Thomas Carew, A Song.

Beauty—And forth she went, a shop for merchandise,
Full of rich stuff, but none for sale exposed;
A veil obscur'd the sunshine of her eyes:
The rose within herself her sweetness closed.
Each ornament about her seemly lies

By curious chance, or carcless art, composed;
For what she most neglects, most curious prove—
So beauty's help'd by nature, heaven, and love.

Tasso, Recovery of Jerusalem, FAIRFAX'S Trans. bk. ii. c. 18.

Beauty's chain—To sigh, yet feel no pain;
To weep, yet scarce know why;
To sport an hour with Beauty's chain,
Then throw it idly by.
Moore, The Blue Stocking.

Beauty's ensign— Beauty's ensign yet
Is crimson in thy lips and in thy cheeks,
And death's pale flag is not advanced there.

SHAKS. Romeo and Juliet, act v. sc. 3.

Beaux—Where none admire, 'tis useless to excel;
Where none are beaux, 'tis vain to be a belle.

MOORE, Soliloguy on a Beauty in the Country.

Bed—Cos. Pray, now, what may be that same bed of honour?

Kite. Oh, a mighty large bed! bigger by half than the great bed at Ware—ten thousand people may lie in it together, and never feel one another.

G. FARQUHAR, The Recruiting Officer, act i. sc. 1.

Bed—Who goes to bed and does not pray,
Maketh two nights to every day! GEO. HERBERT, The Temple.

Bedfellows—Misery acquaints a man with strange bedfellows.

Shars. Tempest, act ii. sc. 2.

Bee—How doth the little busy bee
Improve each shining hour,
And gather honey all the day,
From ev'ry op'ning flower! I. WATTS, Divine Songs, song xx.

Bee—Where the bee sucks, there suck I;
In a cowslip's bell I lie.
Shaks. Tempest, act v. sc. 1.

Beer-To suckle fools, and chronicle small beer.

Shaks. Othello, act ii. sc. 1.

Bees— Sweet is every sound,
Sweeter thy voice, but every sound is sweet;
Myriads of rivulets hurrying through the lawn,
The moan of doves in immemorial elms,
And murmuring of innumerable bees.

TENNYSON, The Princess, can. vii.

Beggar—When King Cophetua loved the beggar maid.
SHAKS. Romeo and Juliet, act ii. sc. 1.

Beggar—Silence in love bewrays more woe
Than words, though ne'er so witty;
A beggar that is dumb, you know,
May challenge double pity.

SIR W. RALEIGH, The Silent Lover.

Beggar—A beggar begs that never begged before.

Shaks. Richard II, act v. sc. 1.

Beggared— For her own person,
It beggared all description.

Darkens the streets, then wander forth the sons

Of Belial, flown with insolence and wine.

Ibid. 1. 500.

Belief-Stands not within the prospect of belief.

Shaks. Macbeth, act i. sc. 3.

Bell-But the sound of the church-going bell

Those valleys and rocks never heard,

Never sighed at the sound of a knell,

Or smiled when a Sabbath appeared.

COWPER, Lines supposed to be written by Alexander Selkirk.

Bell—Silence that dreadful bell: it frights the isle
From her propriety.

Shaks. Othello,

ety. Shaks. Othello, act ii. &c. 8.

Bell-Yet the first bringer of unwelcome news

Hath but a losing office; and his tongue

Sounds ever after as a sullen bell,

Remember'd tolling a departing friend.

SHARS. King Henry IV, part ii. act i. sc. 1.

Bell-The bell strikes one. We take no note of time

But from its loss. To give it then a tongue

Is wise in man. Young, Night Thoughts, night i. l. ss.

But little boats should keep near shore. Franklin, Poor Richard.

Bobbed-And sat upon a rock, and bobbed for whale.

W. King, Upon a Giant's Angling.

Bodkin— There's the respect

That makes calamity of so long life;

For who would bear the whips and scorns of time,

The oppressor's wrong, the proud man's contumely,

The pangs of despised love, the law's delay,

The insolence of office, and the spurns

That patient merit of the unworthy takes,

When he himself might his quie tus make

With a bare bodkin? who would tardels bear,

This is said to have been previously used by Talleyrand.

To grunt and sweat under a weary life,
But that the dread of something after death—
The undiscovered country, from whose bourn
No traveller returns—puzzles the will
And makes us rather bear those ills we have
Than fly to others that we know not of?
Thus conscience does make cowards of us all:
And thus the native hue of resolution
Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought,
And enterprises of great pith and moment,
With this regard, their currents turn awry,
And lose the name of action.

Shaks. Hamlet, act iii. sc. 1.

Body—For of the soul the body form doth take;
For soul is form, and doth the body make.

Spenser, Hymn in Honour of Beauty, 1. 132.

Cheap—'Tis but a folly to rejoyce or boast

How small a price thy well-bought penn'orth cost;

Until thy death thou shalt not fully know

Whether thy purchase be good cheap, or no;

And at that day, believ't, it will appear.

QUARLES, Div. Fancies, xcix. On Buying a Bible.

Cheap—The cheap defence of nations, the nurse of manly sentiment and heroic enterprise is gone.

BURKE, On the French Revolution.

Cheat-When I consider life, 'tis all a cheat.

Yet, fool'd with hope, men favour the deceit;

Trust on, and think to-morrow will repay:

To-morrow's falser than the former day:

Lies worse; and while it says, "We shall be blest

With some new joys," cuts off what we possessed,

DRYDEN, Aurungzebe, act iv. sc. 1.

Cheated—But I hate to be cheated, and never will buy Long years of repentance with moments of joy.

LADY M. W. MONTAGU, The Lover.

Cheated—Doubtless the pleasure is as great-Of being cheated as to cheat. Butler, Hudibras, pt. ii. can. iii. l.i.

Cheek— She never told her love.

But let concealment, like a worm i'the bud,

Feed on her damask cheek: she pined in thought,

And, with a green and yellow melancholy,

She sat, like Patience on a monument.

SHARS. Twelfth Night, act ii. sc. 4. Smiling at grief.

Cheek-He that loves a rosy cheek,

Or a coral lip admires,

Or from star-like eyes doth seek

Fuel to maintain his fires.

As old Time makes these decay,

So his flames must waste away. CAREW, Disdain Returned.

Cheek-It seems she hangs upon the cheek of Night

Like a rich jewel in an Ethiop's ear.

SHAKS. Romeo and Juliet, act i. sc. s.

Cheek-Or bid the soul of Orpheus sing

Such notes as, warbled to the string,

Drew iron tears down Pluto's cheek. MILTON, Il Penseroso, 1. 105.

Cheek-See, how she leans her cheek upon her hand!

O that I were a glove upon that hand,

That I might touch that cheek!

SHAKS. Romeo and Juliet, act ii. sc. 2.

Cheek—'Tis now the summer of your youth: Time has not cropt the roses from your cheek, though sorrow long has washed them. MOORE, The Gamester, act iii. sc. 4.

Cheerful-So didst thou travel on life's common way,

In cheerful godliness.

Wordsworth, Sonnets to

National Independence and Liberty, pt. ii. 14

Cheerful—A man he seems of cheerful yesterdays
And confident to-morrows.

WORDSWORTH, The Excursion, bk. vii.

Cheese—Thought the moon was made of green cheese.

RABELAIS, bk. i. c. 2.

Cheese-And prove that she's not made of green cheese.

Butler, Hudibras, pt. ii. can. iii. l. 208.

Cherrie—The cherrie of her lips.

Sydney, Arcadia, bk. i.

Cherry—There is a garden in her face,

Where roses and white lilies grow;

A heavenly paradise is that place,

Wherein all pleasant fruits do flow.

There cherries grow that none may buy

Till cherry ripe themselves do cry.* R. Alison, Recreations, 1608.

Herrick, who published his Hesperides in 1648, has a song which Nell Gwynne used to sing.
 Cherry ripe, ripe, ripe," I cry;

[&]quot;Full and fair ones, come and buy."—ED.

Cherry— So we grew together,
Like to a double cherry, seeming parted.
Shaks. Midsummer-Night's Dream, act iii. sc. 2.

Cherubins— Look how the floor of heaven
Is thick inlaid with patines of bright gold.
There's not the smallest orb which thou behold'st
But in his motion like an angel sings,
Still quiring to the young-eyed cherubins;
Such harmony is in immortal souls;
But, whilst this muddy vesture of decay
Doth grossly close it in, we cannot hear it.

Shaks. Mer. of Venice, act v. sc. 1.

Chest—The whitewashed wall, the nicely sanded floor,
The varnished clock that clicked behind the door,
The chest contrived a double debt to pay,
A bed by night, a chest of drawers by day.

GOLDSMITH, The Deserted Village, 1. 227.

Chewing— Pacing through the forest,

Chewing the food of sweet and bitter funcy.

Shaks. As You Like It, act iv. sc. 3.

Chickens—What! all my pretty chickens, and their dam,
At one fell swoop?
Shaks. Macbeth, act iv. sc. 3.

Chickens—To swallow gudgeons ere they're catched,
And count their chickens ere they're hatched.

Butler, Hudibras, pt. ii. can. iii. l. 923.

Chief's pride—Vain was the chief's, the sage's pride!

They had no poet, and they died.

Pope, Imitations of Horace, bk, iv. ode o.

Chiel—If there's a hole in a' your coats,

I rede you tent it;

A chiel 's amang you taking notes,

And faith he'll prent it.

Burns, On Capt. Grose's Perceptinations through Scotland.

Child—Grief fills the room up of my absent child,
Lies in his bed, walks up and down with me,
Puts on his pretty looks, repeats his words,
Remembers me of all his gracious parts,
Stuffs out his vacant garments with his form.
SHAKS. King John, act iii. sc. 4.

Child— I have seen

A curious child, who dwelt upon a tract
Of inland ground, applying to his ear
The convolutions of a smooth-lipped shell;
To which, in silence hushed, his very soul
Listened intensely; and his countenance soon
Brightened with joy; for from within were heard
Murmurings whereby the monitor expressed
Mysterious union with its native sea.

Wordsworth, The Excursion, bk. iv.

Child—"He is a true-born child from Natur's mould!" said Pogram with enthusiasm. "He is a true-born child of this free hemisphere! verdant as the mountains of our country; bright and flowing as our mineral Licks; unspiled by withering conventionalities, as air our broad and boundless Perearers! Rough he may be: so air our barrs. Wild he may be: so air our buffalers. But he is a child of Natur', and a child of freedom; and his boastful answer to the despot and the tyrant is, that his bright home is in the settin' sun."

CHARLES DICKENS, Martin Chuzzlewit, chap. xxxiv.

Child—On parent knees, a naked, new-born child,
Weeping thou sat'st while all around thee smiled;
So live that, sinking in thy last long sleep,
Calm thou mayst smile, while all around thee weep.
Sir W. Jones, From the Persian.

Child— A simple child,

That lightly draws its breath, And feels its life in every limb,

What should it know of death? Wordsworth, We are Seven.

Child-And listens like a three-years child.

WORDSWORTH, Lines added to the Ancient Mariner.

Shaks. Mer. of Venice, act. ii. sc. 2.

Child-The child is father of the man.

Wordsworth, My Heart Leaps Up.

^{*} οὐ γὰς πώ τις ἰὸι γόνον αὐτὸς ἀνέγγω.—ODYSSEY, bk. i. l. 216.

"No one ever knew his own father." Buckley's Homer. Pointed out to me by Mr. Thomas L'Estrange, of Donegal. Shakspere also says:—

Art thou his father?
Ay, sir; so his mother says, if I may believe her.

Child-When I was a child, I spake as a child. 1 Cor. xiii. 11.

Child—Yes, child of suffering, thou mayst well be sure, He who ordained the Sabbath loves the poor. Holmes, Urania.

Child—Love is a boy by poets styled:

Then spare the rod and spoil the child.*

Butler, Hudibras, pt. ii. can. i. l. 843.

Child—How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is

To have a thankless child! Shaks. K. Lear, act i. sc. 4.

Child—Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it

Prov. xxii. e.

Child's heart-Old wishes, ghosts of broken plans,

And phantom hopes assemble;

And that child's heart within the man's

Begins to move and tremble. Tennyson, Will. Waterproof.

Child's sob—But the child's sob curseth deeper in the silence • Than the strong man in his wrath.

E. B. Browning, Cry of Children.

Childhood—I have had playmates, I have had companions, In my days of childhood, in my joyful school-days—All, all are gone, the old familiar faces.

LAMB, Old Familiar Faces.

Childhood shows the man

As morning shows the day.

MILTON, Paradise Regained, bk. iv. 1. 220.

Childhood's hour-O, ever thus, from childhood's hour,

I've seen my fondest hopes decay;

I never loved a tree or flower,

But 'twas the first to fade away.

Moore, The Fire Worshippers.

Childish—A childish waste of philosophic pains.

Children — Children know,

Instinctive taught, the friend or foe.

Scott, Lady of the Lake, can. ii. s. 14.

Children—Her children arise up, and call her blessed.

Prov. xxxi. 28.

^{*} He that spareth his rod, hateth his son.—Frov. xiii. 24.

Children— True, I talk of dreams,
Which are the children of an idle brain,
Begot of nothing but vain fantasy.
Shaks. Romeo and Juliet, act i. sc. 4.

Children—As children gathering pebbles on the shore.

MILTON, Paradise Regained, bk. iv. l. 330.

Children—Men are but children of a larger growth.*

DRYDEN, All for Love, prologue.

Children—Souls made of fire, and children of the sun,
With whom revenge is virtue. Young, The Revenge, act v. sc. 2.

Children—For the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light.

Luke xvi. s.

Children—Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not.

Matt. ii. 18.

Chimæras—Gorgons, and Hydras, and Chimæras dire.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, bk. ii. 1. 628.

Chimes—We have heard the chimes at midnight.

Share. K. Henry IV, part ii. act iii. sc. 2.

Chimney-corner—He cometh unto you with a tale which holdeth children from play, and old men from the chimney-corner.

SIR P. SHONEY, The Defence of Poesy.

Chinks—The soul's dark cottage, battered and decayed,
Lets in new light through chinks that time has made;
Stronger by weakness, wiser men become
As they draw near to their eternal home.

WALLER, Verses upon his Divine Poesy.

Chin—Her lips were red, and one was thin,
Compared with that was next her chin;
Some bee had stung it newly.
Sie J. Suckling, On a Wedding.

Chloris—Ah, Chloris! could I now but sit
As unconcerned as when
Your infant beauty could beget

Nor happiness nor pain.

SIR C. SEDLEY, The Mulberry Garden.

^{*} They (men) are but children too, though they have grey hairs and are of a larger size.—Seneca, De Ira, cap. viii.

Choose—Misses! the tale that I relate
This lesson seems to carry—
Choose not alone a proper mate,
But proper time to marry.

Cowper, Pairing Time Anticipated.

Choose —And choose your author as you choose your friend.

Roscommon, Translated Verse.

Chord—There's not a string attuned to mirth

But has its chord in inclaim hely. Hoop, Ode to Melancholy.

Chord—There is in souls a sympathy with sounds;
And as the mind is pitched, the ear is pleased
With melting airs, or martial, brisk, or grave;
Some chord in unism with what we hear
Is touched within us, and the heart replies.
How soft the music of those village bells,
Falling at intervals upon the ear
In cadence sweet! Cowper, Task, bk. vi. Winter Walk at Noon.

Christ—We kind o' thought Christ went agin war and pillage,
And that eppyletts worn't the best mark of a Saint.

LOWELL, Biglow Papers.

Christian—But it's curus Christian dooty,
This ere cuttin' folks's throats.

Christmas—At Christmas play, and make good cheer,
For Christmas comes but once a year.
Tusser, Five Hundred Points of Good Husbandry, chap. xii.

Chrysolite—One entire and perfect chrysolite.
SHAKS. Othello, act v. sc. 2.

Church—Who builds a church to God, and not to fame,
Will never mark the marble with his name.
POPE, Moral Essays, ep. iii. l. 285.

Church—To kirk the nar, from God more far, Has been an old-said saw;

And he that strives to touch a star,

Oft stumbles at a straw.

Spenser, Shepherd's Calendar, Thomalin log.

Church-door—Rom. Courage, man! the hurt cannot be much.

Mer. No, 'tis not so deep as a well, nor so wide as a church-door; but 'tis enough.

SHARS. Romeo and Juliet, act iii. sc. 1.

Churches-Why are our churches shut with jealous care,

Bolted and barred against our bosom's yearning, Save for the few short hours of Sabbath prayer

With the bell's toll statedly returning?

Why are they shut?

Horace Smith, Why are they Shut?

Churchyards—'Tis now the very witching time of night,
When churchyards yana, and hell itself breathes out
Contagion to this world.
Sayks, Hamlet, act iii. sc. 2.

Cimmerian—Melt, and dispel, ye spectre-doubts, that roll Cimmerian darkness o'er the parting soul!

Campbell, Pleasures of Hope, pt. ii. 1. 268.

Circumlocution—If another Gunpowder Plot had been discovered half an hour before the lighting of the match, nobody would have been justified in saving the parliament, until there had been half a score of boards, half a bushel of minutes, several sacks of official memoranda, and a family-vault full of ungrammatical forrespondence on the part of The Circumlocution Office.

Charles Dickers, Little Dorritt, chap. x.

Circumstance-The purpose firm is equal to the deed:

Who does the best his circumstance allows,

Does well, acts nobly: angels could no more.

Young, Night Thoughts, night ii. l. 90.

Cities -- Far from gay cities and the ways of men.

Pope, Odyssey, bk. xiv. 1. 410.

Citizens—Before man made us citizens, great Nature made us men.

Lowell, The Capture.

City—Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid.

Matt. v. 14.

Civet—Give me an ounce of civet, good apothecary, to sweeten my imagination.

Shaks. K. Lear, act iv. sc. 6.

Civil—Civil dissension is a viperous worm

That gnaws the bowels of the commonwealth.

Shaks, K. Henry VI, part i. act v. sc. 1.

Claims—From you blue heaven above us bent,
The grand old gardener and his wife
Smile at the claims of long descent.

And one another clapper-clawing.

Butler, Hudibras, part ii. can. ii. l. 79.

Classic—Poetic fields encompass me around,
And still I seem to trend on classic ground.

Addison, A Letter from Italy.

Clay—Clay and clay differ in dignity.

R. W. Emerson, Conduct of Life.

Clay—

With such a mother! faith in womankind
Beats with his blood, and trust in all things high,
Comes easy to him, and though he trip and fall,
He shall not blind his soul with clay.

Tennyson, The Princess, can. vii.

Clay—This is the porcelain clay of human kind.

DRYDEN, Don Sebastian, act i. sc. 1.

Clay—A fiery soul, which, working out its way,
Fretted the pigmy body to decay,
And o'er informed the tenement of clay.
Deyden, Absalom and Achitophel, part i. l. 156.

Clear-As clear as a whistle.

M. The Astrologer.

Clink—With clink of hammers closing rivets up.*

Charlet, Richard III, altered, act v. sc. 1.

Till, like a clock worn out with eating time,
The wheels of weary life at last stood still.

DRYDEN, Œdipus, act iv. sc. 1.

^{*} See SHAKS. K. Henry V, act iv. chorus.

Clock—" Look at the clock!" said Winifred Pryce,
As she opened the door to her husband's knock,
Then paused to give him a piece of advice—
"You nasty varmint, look at the clock!"
BARHAM, Ingoldsby Legends, p. 35.

Clod—Ay, but to die, and go we know not where;
To lie in cold obstruction, and to rot:
This sensible warm motion to become
A kneaded clod; and the delighted spirit
To bathe in fiery floods, or to reside
In thrilling region of thick-ribbed ice;
To be imprison'd in the viewless winds,
And blown with restless violence round about
The pendent world. Shars. Measure for Measure, act iii. sc. 1.

Close—At the close of the day, when the hamlet is still,
And mortals the sweets of forgetfulness prove,
When nought but the torrent is heard on the hill,
And nought but the nightingale's song in the grove.

Beattle, The Hermit.

Clothing—Clothing the palpable and familiar
With golden exhalations of the dawn.
Coleridge, The Death of Wallenstein, act i. sc. 1.

Cloud-A cloud of witnesses.

Heb. xii. 1.

Cloud—Behold, there ariseth a little cloud out of the sea, like a man's hand.

1 Kings xviii. 44.

Cloud—Was I deceived? or did a sable cloud
Turn forth her silver lining on the night?

MILTON, Comus, l. 221.

Clouds—Now is the winter of our discontent
Made glorious summer by this sun of York,
And all the clouds that lowered upon our house
In the deep bosom of the ocean buried.

Shaks. K. Richard III, act i. sc. 1.

Clubs—With spots quadrangular of diamond form,
Ensanguined hearts, clubs typical of strife,
And spades, the emblem of untimely graves.
Cowper, The Task, bk. iv. Winter Evening.

Coach—Go call a coach, and let a coach be called,

And let the man who calleth be the caller;

And in his calling let him nothing call,

But "Coach! coach!" O for a coach, ye gods!

H. CAREY, Chrononhotonthologos, act ii. sc. 4.

Coals—Therefore, if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head.

Rom. xii. 20.

Prov. XXV. 22.

Coat-Old Grimes is dead, that good old man,

We ne'er shall see him more:

He used to wear a long black coat,

All buttoned down before. A. G. Greene, Old Grimes.

Cockloft—Often the cockloft is empty in those which Nature hath built many stories high.

Fuller, Andronicus, ad fin. 1.

I am not worth this coil that's made for me.

SHAKS. K. John, act ii. sc. 1.

Byron, The Giaour, l. 1090.

Cold—The cold, the changed, perchance the dead—anew,
The mourned, the loved, the lost—too many! yet how few!
Byron, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, can. iv. st. 24

Cold—As cold waters to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country.

Prov. xxv. 25.

Coldly Such is the aspect of this shore;

'Tis Greece, but living Greece no more!

So coldly sweet, so deadly fair,

We start, for soul is wanting there. Byron, The Giaour, l. so.

Coliseum-While stands the Coliseum, Rome shall stand;

When falls the Coliseum, Rome shall fall;

And when Rome falls, the world.

Byron, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, can. iv. st. 145.

Cologne—The river Rhine, it is well known,
Doth wash your city of Cologne;
But tell me, nymphs! what power divine
Shall benedorth wash the lawer Rhine? Coleridge, Cologne.

Colossus—Why, man, he doth bestride the narrow world Like a Colossus; and we petty men Wilk under his huge lega, and peep about To find ourselves dishonomiable grows.

SHAKS. Julius Cæsar, act i. sc. 2.

Columbia—Hail, Columbia! happy land!

J. Hopkinson, Hail, Columbia.

Column—Now stir the fire, close the shutters fast,

Let fall the curtains, wheel the sofa round,

And while the bubbling and loud hissing urn

Throws up a steamy column, and the cups,

That cheer but not inebriate, wait on each,

Cowper, The Task, bk. iv. Winter Evening.

Come—Sport, that wrinkled Care derides,
And Laughter, holding both his sides,
Come and trip it as you go
On the light fantastic toe.

MILTON, L'Allegro, l. 31.

Comparisons—Comparisons are odorous.

SHARS. Much Ado about Nothing, act iii. sc. 5.

Compass—God has a compass in his providences.

LADY R. RUSSELL, Letter XXII. to Dr. Fitzwilliam.

Compass—A narrow compass! and yet there
Dwelt all that's good, and all that's fair!
Give me but what this ribbon bound,
Take all the rest the sun goes round.

WALLER, On a Girdle.

Compassed—Broad based upon her people's will, And compassed by the inviolate sea.

Tennyson, Dedication to the Queen.

Silvks. Hamlet, act i. sc. 4.

Complies—He that complies against his will Is of his own opinion still.

BUTLER, Hudibras, pt. iii. can. iii. i. 547.

Composture— I'll example you with thievery:

The sun's a thief, and with his great attraction Robs the vast sea: the moon's an arrant thief, And her pale fire she snatches from the sun: The sea's a thief, whose liquid surge resolves The moon into salt tears: the earth's a thief, That feeds and breeds by a composture stolen From general excrement: each thing's a thief.

SHARS. Timon of Athens, act iv. sc. 3.

Compound—Compound for sins they are inclined to, By damning those they have no mind to.

Linked with one virtue, and a thousand crimes.

Byron, The Corsair, can. iii. st. 24.

Cortez—Then felt I like some watcher of the skies,
When a new planet swims into his ken;
Or like stout Cortez, when with eagle eyes
He stared at the Pacific, and all his men
Looked at each other with a wild surmise—
Silent, upon a peak in Darien.
J. Keats, Sonnet xi.

Costard—The rational hind, Costard.

Shaks. Love's Labour's Lost, act i. sc. 2.

Cot—Mine be a cot beside the hill;

A bee-hive's hum shall soothe my ear;

A willowy brook, that turns a mill,

With many a full, shall linger near. Sam. Rogers, A Wish.

Cottage—He stood beside a cottage lone,

And listened to a lute.

One summer's eve when the breeze was gone,

And the nightingale was mute.

Courtesy—I am the very pink of courtesy.

Shaks. Romeo and Juliet, act ii. sc. 4.

Coventry—A mad fellow met me on the way, and told me I had unloaded all the gibbets, and pressed the dead bodies. No eye hath such such sente-crows. I'll not march through Coventry with them, that's flat! Nay, and the villains march wide betwixt the legs, as it they had gives on; for, indeed, I had the most of them out of prison. Stones K. Henry IV, part i, act iv. sc. 2.

Coward—I was a coward on instinct.

Shaks. K. Henry IV, part i. act ii. sc. 4.

Coward—When all the blandishments of life are gone,

The coward sneaks to death, the brave live on.

DR. G. SEWELL, The Suicide.

Coward— Thou slave, thou wretch, thou coward,
Thou little valiant, great in villany!
Thou ever strong upon the stronger side!
Thou Fortune's champion, that dost never fight

But when her humorous ledyship is by

To teach thee safety! Shaks. K. John, act iii. sc. 1.

Cowards—Cowards die many times before their deaths:
The valiant never taste of death but once.

Addison, Cato, act v. sc. 1.

Crazy—Whatever crazy sorrow saith,

No life that breathes with human breath
Has ever truly longed for death.

Tennyson, The Two Voices.

Creation—Creation sleeps. 'Tis as the gen'ral pulse
Of life stood still, and Nature made a pause;
An awful pause! prophetic of her end.
Young, Night Thoughts, night i. l. 22.

Creator—Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth.

Eccles. xii. 1.

Creature—A creature not too bright or good
For human nature's daily food;
For transient sorrows, simple wiles,
Praise, blame, love, kisses, tears, and smiles.
Wordsworth, A Portrait.

Creature—No creature smarts so little as a fool.

Pope, Epistle to Dr. Arbuthnot, 1. 84.

Creature—Destroy his fib, or sophistry—in vain,
The creature's at his dirty work again.

Ibid. 1. 91.

Creatures—That we can call these delicate creatures ours,
And not their appetites.

GRAY, To Mr. West, third series, letter iv.

Creditor— Spirits are not finely touched,
But to fine issues; nor Nature never lends
The smallest scruple of her excellence,
But, like a thrifty goddess, she determines
Herself the glory of a creditor,

Both thanks and use. SHAKS. Meas. for Meas. act i. sc. 1.

Credulity—Ye who listen with credulity to the whispers of fancy, and pursue with cagerness the phantoms of hope; who expect that age will perform the promises of youth, and that the deficiencies of the present day will be supplied by the morrow, attend to the history of Rasselas, Prince of Abyssinia.

Jounson, Rasselas, chap. 1.

Creed—Sapping a solemn creed with solemn sneer.

Byron, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, can. iii. st. 107.

Creed— Great God! I'd rather be A Pagan suckled in a creed outworn;

So might I, standing on this pleasant lea,

Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;

Have sight of Proteus rising from the sea, Or hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn.

Wordsworth, Miscell, Sonnets, pt. i. 33.

Love, free as air, at sight of human ties,
Spreads his light wings, and in a moment flies.
Pore, Eloïsa to Abelard, 1. 74.

Curse—Never was heard such a terrible curse!
But what gave rise
To no little surprise,
Nobody seemed one penny the worse!
BARHAM, Ingoldsby Legends, The Jackdaw.

Cursed—Cursed be the verse, how well soc'er it flow,

That tends to make one worthy man my foe.

Pope, Prologue to the Satires, 1. 283.

Curses— My way of life
Is fallen into the sere, the yellow leaf;
And that which should accompany old age,
As honour, love, obedience, troops of friends,
I must not look to have; but in their stead,
Curses, not loud, but deep, mouth-honour, breath,
Which the poor heart would fain deny and dare not.
Shaks. Macbeth, act v. sc. s.

Dale—The intelligible forms of ancient poets,
The fair humanities of old religion,
The power, the beauty, and the majesty,
That had their haunts in dale, or piney mountain,
Or forests by slow stream, or pebbly spring,
Or chasms and watery depths—all these have vanished:
They live no longer in the faith of reason.

Coleridge, Wallenstein, pt. i. act ii. sc. 4.

Fair daffodils, we weep to see
 You haste away so soon:
 As yet the early rising sun
 Hus not attained his noon.
 ROBERT HERRICK.

Dalliance—Do not, as some ungracious pastors do,
Show me the steep and thorny way to heaven,
Whilst, like a puffed and reckless libertine,
Himself the primrose path of dalliance treads,
And recks not his own rede.

Egg-The vulgar boil, the learned roast an egg.

Pope, Satires, ep. ii. bk. ii. l. 85.

Elder— Let still the woman take
An elder than herself; so wears she to him,
So sways she level in her husband's heart;
For, boy, however we do praise ourselves,
Our fancies are more giddy and unfirm,
More longing, wavering, sooner lost and worn,
Than women's are. Shaks. Twelfth Night, act, ii. sc. 4.

Elements—She walks the waters like a thing of life, And seems to dare the elements to strife.

Byron, The Corsair, can. i. st. s.

Elements—His life was gentle, and the elements
So mixed in him that Nature might stand up
And say to all the world, This was a man!

SHAKS. Julius Casar, act v. sc. s.

Elephants—So geographers, in Afric maps, With savage pictures fill their gaps, And o'er unhabitable downs Place elephants for want of towns.
So, naturalists observe, a flea Has smaller fleas that on him prey; And these have smaller still to bite 'em,

And so proceed ad infinitum. Swift, Poetry, a Rhapsody

Eloquence— In discourse more sweet,

(For eloquence the soul, song charms the sense,)

Others apart sation a hill retired,

In thoughts more elevate, and reason'd high

Of providence, foreknowledge, will, and fate;

Fixed fate, free will, foreknowledge absolute,

And found no end, in wandering mazes lost.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, bk. ii. l. 556.

Eloquence—No words suffice the secret soul to show;

For truth denies all cloquence to woe.

As all looks yellow to the jaundiced eye.

Pope, Essay on Criticism, pt. ii. l. 358.

Eye- He drew a dial from his poke,

And looking on it with lack-lustre eye,

Says, very wisely, "It is ten o'clock.

Thus we may see," quoth he, "how the world wags."

SHARS. As You Like It, act ii. sc. 7.

Eye—Alack! there lies more peril in thine eye

Than twenty of their swords.

Shaks. Romeo and Juliet, act ii. sc. 2.

Eye-As ever in my great Taskmaster's eye.

MILTON, Sonnets, son. i.

 $F_{\theta \theta}$ —Friendship is constant in all other things,

Save in the office and affairs of love

Therefore all hearts in love use their own tongues;

Let every eye negotiate for itself,

And trust no agent. Shaks. Much Ado about Nothing, act ii. sc. 1. .

Eye-It adds a precious seeing to the eye.

SHAKS. Love's Labour's Lost, act iv. sc. 3.

Eye—The minds of some of our statesmen, like the pupil of the human eye, contract themselves the more the stronger light there is shed upon them.

Moore, Preface to Corruption and Intolerance.

Eye-His fair large front and eye sublime declared

Absolute rule; and hyacinthine locks

Round from his parted forelock manly hung

Clustering, but not beneath his shoulders broad.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, bk. iv. l. 300.

Eye-In the twinkling of an eye.

1 Cor. xv. 52.

Eye-Stabbed with a white wench's black eye.

SHARS. Romeo and Juliet, act ii. sc. 4.

Eyes—To scatter plenty o'er a smiling land,

And read their history in a nation's eyes.

GRAY, Flegy in a Country Churchyard.

140 EYES.

Eyes—There was a sound of revelry by night,
And Belgium's capital had gathered then
Her beauty and her chivalry, and bright
The lamps shone o'er fair women and brave men;
A thousand hearts beat happily; and when
Music arose with its voluptuous swell,
Soft eyes looked love to eyes which spake again,
And all went merry as a marriage-bell.

Byron, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, can. iii. st. 21.

Eyes—The light that lies
In woman's eyes.

Moore, The Time I've Lost, &c.

Eyes—My eyes make pictures when they are shut.

Rain influence. MILTON, L'Allegro, 1. 121.

Eyes—And looks commercing with the skies,

Thy rapt soul sitting in thine eyes. MILTON, Il Penseroso, 1. 39.

Eyes—Her eyes the ylow-worm lend thee,
The shooting-stars attend thee;
And the elves also,
Whose little eyes glow
Like the sparks of fire, befriend thee.

HERRICK, Night Piece to Julia.

FACE.

ACE—Let nothing but a face of joy appear; The man who frowns this day shall lose his head, That he may have no face to frown withal.

FIELDING, Tom Thumb.

Face-Can't I another's face commend,

And to her virtues be a friend, But instantly your forehead lowers, As if her merit lessened yours?

Moore, fable ix. The Farmer, the Spaniel, and the Cat.

Face-And ne'er did Grecian chisel trace A Nymph, a Naïad, or a Grace, Of finer form, or lovelier face.

Scorr, The Lady of the Lake, can. i. st. 18.

Face-As if the man had fixed his face In many a solitary place,

Against the wind and open sky!

WORDSWORTH, Peter Bell, pt. i. st. 26.

Face-• There's no art

To find the mind's construction in the face.

SHAKS. Macbeth, act i. sc. 4.

Face—The light of love, the purity of grace, The mind, the music breathing from her face, The heart whose softness harmonized the whole, And oh! that eye was in itself a soul.

Byron, The Bride of Abydos, can. i. st. 6.

Face—He lives to build, not boast a generous race;
No tenth transmitter of a foolish face.

R. SAVAGE, The Bastard, 1. 7.

Fairest—Our fairest dreams are made of truths.

Leigh Hunt, Bodryddan.

Fairy—And truth severe, by fairy fiction drest.
GRAY, The Bard, pt. iii. st. 3.

Fairy—By fairy hands their knell is rung;
By forms unseen their dirge is sung;
There Honour comes, a pilgrim gray,
To bless the turf that wraps their clay. Collins, Ode in 1746.

Faith—'Tis hers to pluck the amaranthine flower
Of faith, and round the sufferer's temples bind
Wreaths that endure affliction's heaviest shower,
And do not shrink from sorrow's keenest wind.

Wordsworth, Miscell. Sonnets, pt. i. 35.

Faith— Whose faith has centre everywhere,
Nor cares to fix itself to form. Tennyson, In Memoriam, xxxiii.

Faith—One in whom persuasion and belief
Had ripened into faith, and faith become
A passionate intuition. Wordsworth, The Excursion, bk. iv.

Faith—In this awfully stupendous manner, at which reason stands aghast, and faith herself is half confounded, was the grace of God to man at length manifested.

RICH. HURD, Sermons, vol. ii. p. 287.

Faith—But Faith, fanatic Faith, once wedded fast
To some dear falsehood, hugs it to the last.

Moore, Veiled Prophet of Khorassan.

Falcon—A falcon, towering in her pride of place,
Was by a mousing owl hawked at and killed.

SHAKS. Macbeth, act ii. sc. 4.

Fall—If music be the food of love, play on;
Give me excess of it, that, surfeiting,
The appetite may sicken, and so die.
That strain again!—it had a dying fall;
O, it came o'er my ear like the sweet south,
That breathes upon a bank of violets,
Stealing and giving odour! Shaks. Twelfth Night, act i. sc. 1.

Fall— Great Cæsar fell.

O, what a fall was there, my countrymen!

Shaks. Julius Cæsar, act iii. sc. 2.

Falling-off—O Hamlet, what a falling-off was there! Shars. Hamlet, act i. sc. 5.

Falling—A brave man struggling in the storms of fate,
And greatly falling with a falling state.

Pope, Prologue to Addison's Cato.

Falls—Vain pomp and glory of this world, I hate ye:
I feel my heart new open'd. O, how wretched
Is that poor man that hangs on princes' favours!
There is, betwixt that smile we would aspire to,
That sweet aspect of princes, and their ruin,
More pangs and fears than wars or women have:
And when he falls, he falls like Lucifer,
Never to hope again.
Shaks. K. Henry VIII, act iii. sc. 2.

Falls— He that will to bed go sober, Falls with the leaf still in October.

BEAUMONT and FLETCHEE, Rollo, act if. sc. 2.

False—False as dicers' oaths. Shars. Hamlet, act iii. sc. 4.

False—Vain wisdom all, and false philosophy.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, bk. ii. l. 566.

Falsehood— The first
That practised falsehood under saintly show,
Deep malice to conceal.

Thid. 1

Ibid. bk. iv. l. 122.

Fame- Fame is the spur that the clear spirit doth raise

(Tha last infirmity of noble mind)

To soom delights and live laborious days;

But the tair guerdon when we hope to find,

And think to burst out into sudden blaze,

Comes the blind Fury with the abhorred shears,

And slits the thin-spun life. MILTON, Lycidas, 1. 70.

Famous-" But what good came of it at last?"

Quoth little Peterkin.

"Why, that I cannot tell," said he;

"But 'twas a famous victory."

Souther, The Battle of Blenheim.

Fancies Not so sick, my lord,

As she is troubled with thick-coming funcies,

That keep her from her rest. Shaks. Macbeth, act v. sc. s.

Fancy— We figure to ourselves

The thing we like, and then we build it up,

As chance will have it, on the rock or sand:

For thought is tired of wandering o'er the world,

And home-bound fancy runs her bark ashore.

TAYLOR, P. van Artevelde, pt. i. act i. sc. s.

Fancy—While fancy, like the finger of a clock,
Runs the great circuit, and is still at home.
Cowrer, The Task, bk. iv. The Winter Evening.

Fancy's course— All impediments in fancy's course
Are motives of more fancy.

Shaks. All's Well that Ends Well, act v. sc. 3.

Fancy's ray—Misled by fancy's meteor ray, By passion driven;

But yet the light that led astray Was light from heaven.

Burns, The Vision.

Fantastic.—Who o'er the herd would wish to reign,
Fantastic, fickle, fierce, and vain?
Vain as the leaf upon the stream,
And fickle as a changeful dream,
Fantastic as a woman's mood,
And fierce as Frenzy's fevered blood,
Thou many-headed monster thing,*

O who would wish to be thy king?

Scorr, The Lady of the Lake, can. v. st. 30.

Father—Old father antic the law.

SHARS. K. Henry IV, part i. act i. sc. 2.

Father—Father of all! in every age,

In every clime adored,

By saint, by savage, and by sage,

Jehovah, Jove, or Lord.

Pope, Universal Prayer.

Father-My father's brother; but no more like my father

Than I to Hercules.

SHAKS. Hamlet, act i. sc. 2.

Fault—And, oftentimes, excusing of a fault

Doth make the fault the worse by the excuse.

SHARS. King John, act iv. sc. 2.

Dry sun, dry wind, Safe bind, safe find.
 Tussen, Five Hundred Points of Good Husbandry.

Fault—Every one fault seeming monstrous, till his fellow-fault came to match it.

SHAKS. As You Like It, act iii. sc. 2.

Faults-In other men we faults can spy,

And blame the mote that dims their eye:

Each little speck and blemish find,

To our own stronger errors blind.

GAY, Turkey and Ant.

Faults-Oh, what a world of vile ill-favoured faults

Looks handsome in three hundred pounds a-year!

Shaks. Merry Wives of Windsor, act iii. sc. 4.

Favourite-A favourite has no friend.

Gray, On the Death of a Favourite Cat.

Favourite-To be a Prodigal's favourite-then worse truth;

A Miser's pensioner—behold our lot!

O Man, that from thy fair and shining youth

Age might but take the things Youth needed not.

WORDSWORTH, The Small Celandine.

Fear-The fear o' hell's a hangman's whip

To haud the wretch in order;

But where ye feel your honour grip,

Let that aye be your border. Burns, Ep. to a Young Friend.

^{*} Nec mirum, quod divina Natura dedit agros, ars humana ædificavit urbes.— Varro. Cowper's is a wonderfully close translation, but it is quite possible that he had not seen the original — See p. 69. "Crin"

sible that he had not seen the original —See p. 69, "Crin" the Dr. John Bull (1581) was the composer only. Henry Carey's son claimed it us the composition of his father, whose granddaughter, Alice Carey, was the mother of Edmund Kean—Carey died in 1743. The germ of this song is to be found in one which Sir Peter Carew used to sing before Henry VIII. it runs:—

[&]quot;And I said, Good Lord, defend England with Thy most holy hand, And save noble Henry our king."

This effectually dissipates Carey's claim to have originated the National Anthem. See also quotation on next page from Shaks. Richard II, "No man cried God save him," p. 166.

Heaviest battalions.—There is a common military maxim that "Providence always favours the heaviest battalions," which has been attributed to Napoleon. Similar words were frequently in the mouth of the General Lee of our revolutionary history, who was an Englishman that had served in the Prussian army. In a letter of Voltaire to M. le Riche, dated Feb. 6, 1770, "Le nombre des sages sera toujours petit. Il est vrai qu'il est augmenté; mais ce n'est rien en comparison des sots.

et par malheur on dit que Dieu est toujours pour les gros bataillons." Thus far an American correspondent who adds,—

I believe Lord Londonderry attributes a similar remark to Frederick the Great; and Harte, in his life of Gustavus Adolphus, says that monarch had no regard to that profane and foolish maxim, which was used by Wallenstein, that the Supreme Being always favours the greater squadrons. The same idea is shadowed forth in the common proverbs: "God helps them who help themselves," and "Fortune favours the brave." In his "Death of Marc Antony," published in 1701, Sir Charles Sedley has the following couplet, put in the mouth of the traitor Archytas, act iv. sc. 2:—

Let fools the fame of loyalty divide: Wise men and gods are on the strongest side.

The idea was old in the time of Cicero, who speaks of it as "veterum proverbium;" and it may be found in Virgil, Ovid, and Livy, the last of whom says, "Fortes fortunam adjuvare aiebant."

Hebrew-A Hebrew knelt, in the dying light:

His eye was dim and cold;

The hairs on his brow were silver-white,

And his blood was thin and old.

Hours—'Tis greatly wise to talk with our past hours, And ask them what report they bore to Heaven.

Ibid. night ii. l. 276.

Hours—The Bell strikes one! We take no note of time
But by its loss. As if an angel spoke,
I feel the solemn sound. If heard aright,
It is the knell of my departed hours. Ibid. night i. l. 55.

House—It is better to go to the house of mourning than to go to the house of feasting.

Eccles. vii. 2.

House—You take my house when you do take the prop
That doth sustain my house; you take my life
When you do take the means whereby I live.
SHAKS. Merchant of Venice, act iv. sc. 1.

Household— Then shall our names,
Familiar in their mouths as household words,
Harry the King, Bedford and Exeter,
Warwick and Talbot, Salisbury and Gloster,
Be in their flowing cups freshly remembered.

SHAKS. K. Henry V, act iv. sc. 2.

How—How hard their lot who neither won nor lost!

J. Beattie, Epigram. The Bucks had dined.

How—Whatever was required to be done, their Circumlocution Office was beforehand with all the public departments in the art of perceiving how not to do it. C. DICKENS, Little Dorrit, chap. x.

How—While tumbling down the turbid stream,
Lord love us, how we apples swim! D. MALLETT, Tyburn.

Hum— Hear ye not the hum
Of mighty workings? Keats, Sonnet to Haydon.

Humanity—O wearisome condition of humanity!

F. Greville (Lord Brooke), Mustapha, act v. sc. 4.

Humour-The humour of it.

SHARS. Merry Wives of Windsor, act ii. sc. 1.

Husband—And truant husband should return, and say, "My dear, I was the first who came away."

Byron, Don Juan, can. i. st. 141.

I.

-I am a part of all that I have met.st

TENNYSON, Ulysses.

I—I am not only witty in myself, but the cause that wit is in other men.

SHARS. K. Henry IV, part ii. act i. sc. 2.

I—'Tis strange the Hebrew noun which means I am, The English always use to govern "damn."

Byron, Don Juan, can. i. st. 14.

1-Triumphant arch, that fill'st the sky

When storms prepare to part,

I ask not proud philosophy

To teach me what thou art.

CAMPBELL, To the Rainbow. .

I-I cannot eat but little meat.

My stomach is not good;

But sure I think that I can drink

With him that wears a hood.

BISHOP STILL, G. Gurton's Needle, act ii.

I—I care for nobody, no, not I,
If no one cares for me. †

Love in a Village, act i. sc. s.

I five not in myself, but I become Portion of that around me, and to me High mountains are a feeling but the hum Of human cities torture—Byson, Childe Harold, can. in st. 72

† If nacbody care for me, I'll care for nacbody.—Burns.

The original in the old ballad reads,-

I envy nobody, no, not I, And nobody envies me.

King Henry VIII, meeting his miller, envies him, as he thus sings.

I-I dare do all that may become a man:

Who dares do more is none.

SHARS. Macbeth, act i. sc. 7.

I'd—Surely 'tis better, when summer is over,

To die when all fair things are fading away. Some in life's winter may toil to discover

Means of procuring a weary delay.

I'd be a butterfly, living a rover,

Dying when fair things are fading away.

T. H. BAYLY. Songs.

I—I do not love thee, Doctor Fell:
The reason why I cannot tell;
But this alone I know full well,
I do not love thee, Doctor Fell.*

"Tom Brown having committed some great fault at the University, the Dean of Christ Church threatened to expel him; but Tom, with a very submissive epistle begging pardon, so pleased the Dean, that he was minded to forgive him upon this condition, that he should translate this epigram out of Marshal (sic) extempore,—

Non amo te, Sabidi, nec possum dicere quare; Hoc tantum possum dicere, non amo te.

Which he immediately rendered into English thus,—

Tdo not love you, Doctor Fell:
But why I cannot tell;
But this I know full well,
I do not love you, Doctor Fell."
Tom Brown, Works, vol. iv. p. 118, ed. 1710.

Our version is that commonly received, and is less rugged. The Dean, afterwards Bishop of Oxford, died 1686. This will answer the query in the leader of one of our chief newspapers, "Who was Dr. Fell?"

I-I give thee sixpence! I will see thee d-d first.
CANNING, Knife-Grinder, Poetry of Ante-Jacobin.

This is imitated from Martial, ep. xxxiii. lib. 1, and has been a favourite with epigrammatists. Here is a specimen from a French author:—

Je ne vous aime pas, Hylas;
Je n'en saurois dire la cause;
Je sais seulement un chose,
C'est que je ne vous aime pas,
Bussy Rabutin, ep. xxxiii. bk, 1.—

I—I give thee all—I can no more,
 Tho' poor the offering be;
 My heart and lute are all the store
 That I can bring to thee.
 MOORE, Miscellaneous Poems, and National Airs.

I—I hear a voice you cannot hear, Which says I must not stay; I see a hand you cannot see, Which beckons me away.

Tickell, Colin and Lucy.

I—I went to Frankfort, and got drunk
 With that most learn'd professor, Brunck;
 I went to Worms, and got more drunken
 With that more learn'd professor, Ruhncken.

Porson, Facetiæ Cantab.

I—I on my journey all alone proceed.

Churchill, The Journey, 1. 186.

I—Thank you, good sir, I owe you one.

COLMAN, Poor Gentleman, act i. sc. 2.

I—I remember, I remember,
 The fir-trees dark and high;
 I used to think their slender tops
 Were close against the sky.
 It was a childish ignorance,
 But now 'tis little joy
 To know I'm further off from heaven
 Than when I was a boy.

Hood, Poems.

I—I remember, I remember,
How my childhood fleeted by,—
The mirth of its December,
And the warmth of its July;
On my brow, love, on my brow, love,
There are no signs of care;
But my pleasures are not now, love,
What childhood's pleasures were.
W. M. Praed (June 1833), Songs, vol. ii. p. sp.

I—Quoth Hudibras, "I smell a rat; *
Ralpho, thou dost prevaricate." Butler, Hudibras, can. i. l. s21.

[.] Smell a rat. - B. Jonson, Tale of a Tub, act iv. sc. 3.

FULLER, Holy State, The Good Sea-Captain.

Image—How widely its agencies vary—

To save—to ruin—to curse—to bless—

As even its minted coins express,

Now stamped with the image of good Queen Bess,

And now of a Bloody Mary! Hoon, Miss Kilmansegg.

Imagination-The lunatic, the lover, and the poet

Are of imagination all compact.

Shaks. Midsummer-Night's Dream, act v. sc. 1.

Imagination— But who can paint

Like nature? Can imagination boast, Amid its gay creation, hues like hers?

Thomson, The Seasons, Spring, 1. 465.

Immortal—One of the few, the immortal names

That were not born to die. HALLECK, Marco Bozzaris.

Immortality—So long as men can breathe, or eyes can see, So long lives this, and this gives life to thee.

Do you not follow the young Lord Paris? Serv. Ay, sir, when he walks before me.

Troilus and Cressida, act iii. so. 1.

^{*} Written in imitation of Chanson sur le fameux La Palisse, which is attributed to Bernard de la Monnoye,—

[†] See the Latin proverb : -

[&]quot; Dulce pomum quum abest custos."

They took their title from Christopher Katt, their pastry-cook. Pope or Arbuthnot wrote the following epigram on the toasts of the club:—

"Whence deathless Kit-Kat took his name
Few critics can unriddle;
Some say from pastry-cook it came,
And some from Cat and Fiddle.
From no trim beaux its name it boasts,
Grey statesmen, or green wits;
But from this pell-mell pack of toasts,
Of old Cats and young Kits."

The term came to be applied to portraits owing to Sir Godfrey Kneller having executed likenesses of the members for Jacob Tonson, the bookseller, who was secretary of the club, which were all of one size, then new, and still distinguished as the Kit-Kat size. The portraits are still in the possession of Tonson's representatives.

PRIOR, Imitation of Horace.

Leave-Leave her to Heaven,

And to those thorns that in her bosom lodge.

To prick and sting her. SHAKS. Hamlet, act i. sc. v.

Leaves—Like the leaves of the forest, when summer is green,

That host, with their banners, at sunset were seen,

Like the leaves of the forest, when autumn hath blown,

That host, on the morrow, lay withered and strown.

Byron, Destruction of Sennacherib's Host, 1. 4.

Let—Let those love now who never loved before.

Let those who always loved now love the more. +

PARNELL, The Pervigilium Veneris.

LORD MANSFIELD, Charge, circa 1789.

Libel—By whose false gloss the very Bible

Might be interpreted a libel. CHURCHILL, Ghost, bk. iii. 1. 725.

Liberal—Though her mien carries much more invitation than command, to behold her is an immediate check to loose behaviour; to love her was a liberal education.

Steele, The Tatler, no. 49.

Liberty—Liberty and Union, now and for ever, one and inseparable. Webster, Second Speech on Foot's Resolution.

Liberty-O liberty! liberty! how many crimes are committed in thy MADAME ROLAND. name!

I must have liberty Liberty

Withal, as large a charter as the wind,

To blow on whom I please. SHAKS. As You Like It, act ii. sc. 7.

Liberty—Give me liberty, or give me death!

P. Henry, Speech, March, 1775.

Liberty-License they mean when they cry liberty.

MILTON, Sonnets, son. xii.

Lies-Lies like truth.

SHAKS. Macbeth, act v. sc. s.

Lies-Where history's pen its praise or blame supplies,

And lies like truth, and still like truth it lies. Byron, Lara.

Lies—Some truth there was, but dash'd and brew'd with lies,
To please the fools and puzzle all the wise.

DRYDEN, Absalom and Achitophel, 1. 114.

Life—No, Life is a waste of wearisome hours,

Which seldom the rose of enjoyment adorns;

And the heart that is soonest awake to the flowers Is always the first to be touched by the thorns.

Moore, Oh think not my spirit.

Life—In small proportion we just beauties see, And in short measures life may perfect be.

JONSON, Good Life, Long Life.

Life—Hides from himself his state, and shuns to know That life protracted is protracted woe.

JOHNSON, Vanity of Human Wishes, l. 257.

Life-We watched her breathing through the night,

Her breathing soft and low;

As in her breast the wave of life

Kept heaving to and fro.

Hood, The Death-Bed.

Life—The wine of life is drawn, and the mere lees
Is left this vault to brag of.
Shaks. Macbeth, act ii. sc. s.

Life-Variety's the very spice of life,

That gives it all its flavour. Cowper, bk. ii. The Timepiece.

Life—The web of our life is of a mingled yarn, good and ill together. Shars. All's Well that Ends Well, act iv. sc. 3.

Life-Life's a jest, and all things show it;

I thought so once, and now I know it. GAY, Epitaph on Himself.

Life's cup— Years steal

Fire from the mind as vigour from the limb;

And life's enchanted cup but sparkles near the brim.

Byron, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, can. iii. st. 8.

Life's end-That life is long which answers life's great end.

Young, Night Thoughts, night v. l. 773.

Light—He was a burning and a shining light.

John v. 95.

Light—'Tis sweet to view, from half-past five to six,
Our long wax candles, with short cotton wicks,
Touch'd by the lamplighter's Promethean art,
Start into light, and make the lighter start.

Horace Smith, Rejected Addresses (Crabbe).

Southey, Ode written during the War with America, 1814.

Light—But, soft! what light through yonder window breaks?
It is the east, and Juliet is my sun!*
SHARS. Romeo and Juliet, act ii. sc. 2.

Light—Thus, when the lamp that lighted
The traveller at first goes out,
He feels awhile benighted,
And looks around in fear and doubt.
But soon, the prospect clearing,
By cloudless starlight on he treads,
And thinks no lamp so cheering
As that light which heaven sheds.

Moore, I'd mourn the Hopes.

Light—A light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of Thy people Israel.

Luke ii. sz.

Light—Light, seeking light, doth light of light beguile.

John xii. 85.

Lights—Let your loins be girded about, and your lights burning.

Luke xii. 25.

Like—Like—but oh! how different!
WORDSWORTH, Poems of the Imagination, xxix.

[•] Shakerley Marmion has imitated this:—
That more than earthly light breaks through that window. Brighter than all the glittering train of nymphs
That wait on Cynthia or, when attended by those lesser stars. She treads the azure circle of the heavens.

Antiquary, act in. sc 1 (1641)

Like—Like the dew on the mountain,
Like the foam on the river,
Like the bubble on the fountain,
Thou art gone and for ever.

Scott, The Lady of the Lake, can. iii. st. 16.

Limbo—Limbo, a word often used by literati; "the limbo of dead mags;" from limbus, a border: limbus fatuorum, the paradise of fools; limbus puerorum, the hell (place of darkness) of unbaptized infants.

See Paradise Lost, bk. iii. 1. 440-497.

Line—As a wit, if not first, in the very first line.

GOLDSMITH, Retaliation, 1. 06.

Lonely— The trembling knee
And frantic gape of lonely Niobe,
Poor, lonely Niobe! when her lovely young
Were dead and gone.

KEATS, Endymion.

Long—To one who has been long in city pent,*
'Tis very sweet to look into the fair
And open face of heaven, to breathe a prayer

Full in the smile of the blue firmament.

KEATS, Sonnets.

Look-Look ere thou leap; see ere thou go.

Tusser, Five Hundred Points of Good Husbandry, ch. lvii.

Look -Nor east one longing, lingering look behind.

GRAY, Elegy in a Country Churchyard

Look—Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth his colour in the cup... At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder.

Prov. xxiii. 31, 32.

Looked-Or sighed and looked unutterable things.

THOMSON, The Seasons, Summer, 1. 1188.

Lord—The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord.

Job i. 21.

Lord-Lord! what a doleful place is this!

There's neither coal nor candle;

And nothing I but fishes' tripes

And greasy guts do handle. † ZACHARY BOYD'S Bible History.

As one who long in populous city pent.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, bk. ix. l. 445.

[†] Apropos of Jonah when swallowed by the whale. I have not seen this "Bible History." Captain R. F. Burton, the African traveller, who has examined a copy, tells me that this stanza is not in it.

Lord—I believe Lord John Russell would undertake to perform the operation for the stone—build St. Peter's—or assume (with or without ten minutes' notice) the command of the Channel fleet; and no one would discover by his manner that the patient had died—the church tumbled down—and the Channel fleet had been knocked to atoms.

Sydney Smith, Letter to Singleton.

Lord—Lord of himself, though not of lands;
And, having nothing, yet hath all.
Sin H. Wotton, The Character of a Happy Life.

Lord-Lord of thy presence, and no land beside.

SHARS. King John, act i. sc. 1.

Loss—That-loss is common would not make
My own less bitter—rather more;
Too common! never morning wore
To evening but some heart did break. Tennyson, In Memoriam.

Lost-" All is lost save honour."*

FRANCIS I.

Lost to life—Then in a moment she put forth the charm
Of woven paces and of waving hands,
And in the hollow oak he lay as dead,
And lost to life, and use, and name, and fame.
Then crying, "I have made his glory mine,"
And shrieking out "O, fool!" the harlot leapt
Adown the forest, and the thicket closed
Behind her, and the forest echo'd "fool."
TENNYSON, Idylls, closing lines of Vivien.

Love—Can love be controuled by advice?
Will Cupid our mothers obey? GAY, Beggar's Opera, act i. sc. 1.

Love—Love is a sickness full of woes,
All remedies refusing;
A plant that most with cutting grows.

Most barren with best using.

SAMUEL DANIEL, Song.

Love—Love in a hut, with water and a crust,
Is—Love, forgive us!—cinders, ashes, dust.

Keats, Lamia.

^{*} It was from the imperial camp near Pavia that Francis I. wrote to his mother the memorable letter which has become altered to the form of this laconism: "Madame, tout est perdu fors l'honneur." The true expression is, "Madame, pour vous faire savoir comme se porte le reste de mon infortune, de toutes choses ne m'est demeuré que l'honneur et la vie qui est sauvé." MARTIN, Histoire de France, tom. viii.

Love—In peace Love tunes the shepherd's reed;
In war he mounts the warrior's steed;
In halls in gay attire is seen;
In halls in dances on the green.
Love rules the court, the camp, the grove,
And men below, and saints above;
For love is heaven, and heaven is love.

Scorr, The Lay of the Last Minstrel, can. iii. st. 2.

Love-O love! in such a wilderness as this!

CAMPBELL, Gertrude, pt. iii. st. 1.

Love—Love is loveliest when embalmed in tears.

Scott, The Lady of the Lake, can. iv. st. 1.

Love—But there's no love lost between us.*

Goldsmith, She Stoops to Conquer, act i. sc. 4.

Love—I have heard of reasons manifold
Why Love must needs be blind,
But this the best of all I hold—
His eyes are in his mind.

COLERIDGE, To a Lady offended by a Sportive Observation.

Love—It's good to be off wi' the old love
Before ye be on wi' the new.+

Love—It's gude to be merry and wise,
It's gude to be honest and true,
And afore ye're off wi' the auld love
It's best to be on wi' the new.

This is from the old Scotch Song, before Burns; the first line forms the Title.

Love—And all whom I love here, and who love me.

Dr. Donne, Hymn to Christ, 1. 10.

Love—Only in love they happy prove
Who love what most deserves their love.

PHINEAS FLETCHER, The Sicelides.

Love—Love will find out the way. Printed in Evans's Old Ballads.

A proverbial expression. Garrick also makes use of it in his Correspondence, 1759.

[†] Quoted from Johnson's "Musical Museum," pt. v. (1798). These lines are repeated in "The Bride of Lammermoor," vol. iii. p. 19, by Bucklaw, "half-humming, half-speaking the end of an old song," thus—

[&]quot;It's best to be off wi' the old love Before ye be on wi' the new."

212 LOVE.

Love—My merry, merry roundelay Concludes with Cupid's curse: They that do change old love for new

Pray gods they change for worse.

George Peele, Arraignment of Paris, Dyce's Ed. p. 355.

Love-"Love me little, love me long."*

Love-The tree of deepest root is found

Least willing still to quit the ground;

"Twas therefore said, by ancient sages,

That love of life increased with years, So much, that in our latter stages,

When pains grow sharp, and sickness rages,

The greatest love of life appears. MRS. THRALE, Three Warnings.

Love-Love thyself last. Shaks. K. Henry VIII, act iii. sc. 2.

Love-They sin who tell us love can die:

Its holy flame for ever burneth:

From Heaven it came, to Heaven returneth;

Too oft on earth a troublous guest,

At times received, at times oppressed;

It here is tried and purified,

In Heaven it hath its perfect rest:

It soweth here with grief and care,

But the harvest-time of love is there.

Southey, Curse of Kehama, can. x. st. 10.

[•] This is the title of a modern ballad; but it is also the title of an old ballad printed anonymously on a broadside in black-letter, 1569-70. The burden of the old song is,—

[&]quot;Love me little, love me long, Is the burden of my song."

Love—Very pleasant hast thou been unto me: thy love to me was wonderful, passing the love of women. 2 Sam. i. 26.

The courtier's, soldier's, scholar's eye, tongue, sword.

SHARS. Hamlet, act iii. se. 1.

Mind—True love's the gift which God has given To man alone beneath the heaven;

It is not fantasy's hot fire,

Whose wishes, soon as granted, fly;

It liveth not in fierce desire,

With dead desire it doth not die;

It is the secret sympathy,

The silver link, the silken tie,

Which heart to heart, and mind to mind,

In body and in soul can bind.

Scott, Lay of the Last Minstrel, can. v. st. 13.

Mind-Were I so tall to reach the pole,

Or grasp the ocean with my span,

I must be measured by my soul:

The mind's the standard of the man.* WATTS, False Greatness.

Quarrel—Greatly to find quarrel in a straw, When honour's at the stake. Ibid. act iv. sc. 4.

Quarrel—The quarrel is a very pretty quarrel as it stands; we should only spoil it by trying to explain it. SHERIDAN, The Rivals, act iv. sc. s.

Quarrel—They who in quarrels interpose

Must often wipe a bloody nose. GAY, Fable of the Mastiffs.

Quarry—Your castle is surprised; your wife and babes

Savagely slaughtered: to relate the manner Were, on the quarry of these murdered deer,

To add the death of you. SHAKS. Macbeth, act iv. sc. 3.

Queen Dido-Perchance that very hand, now pinioned flat, Has hob-a-nobbed with Pharaoh, glass to glass;

Or dropped a halfpenny in Homer's hat,

Or doffed thine own to let Queen Dido pass.

Horace Smith, Address to a Mummy.

Quiet—But quiet to quick bosoms is a hell!

Byron, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, can. iii. st. 42.

Quiet—The quiet sense of something lost.

TENNYSON, In Memoriam, lxxvii.

Quintilian—That would have made Quintilian stare and gasp. MILTON, Sonnets, son. 11.

Quips—Haste thee, Nymph, and bring with thee

Jest, and youthful Jollity,

Quips and Cranks, and wanton Wiles,

Nods, and Becks, and wreathed Smiles. MILTON, L'Allegro, l. 25.

RACE-RAKE.

ACE—Let others hail the rising sun,
I bow to that whose race is run.
DAVID GARRICK, On the Death of Mr. Pelham.
Rags—The man forgets not, though in rags he lies,
And knows the mortal through a clown's disguise.
MARK AKENSIDE, Ep. to Curio.

Rain—The quality of mercy is not strained; It droppeth, as the gentle rain from heaven Upon the place be weath: it is twice blessed; It blesseth him that gives, and him that takes. 'Tis mightiest in the mightiest: it becomes The throned monarch better than his crown: His sceptre shows the force of temporal power, The attribute to awe and majesty, Wherein doth sit the dread and fear of kings: But mercy is above this sceptred sway; It is enthroned in the hearts of kings, It is an attribute to God Himself; And earthly power doth then show likest God's When mercy seasons justice. Therefore, Jew, Though justice be thy plea, consider this,-That in the course of justice none of us Should see salvation; we do pray for mercy; And that same prayer doth teach us all to render SHARS. Mer. of Venice, act iv. sc. 1. The deeds of mercy.

Rainbow—Be thou the rainbow to the storms of life.

Byron, The Bride of Abydos, can. ii. st. 20.

Rake—He (Steele) was a rake among scholars, and a scholar among rakes. Macaulay, Review of Aikin's Life of Addison.

Ralph—Silence, ye wolves! while Ralph to Cynthia howls,
And makes night hideous; * answer him, ye owls.

Pope, The Dunciad, bk. iii. l. 165.

Rank-Rank is but the guinca's stamp,

The man's the gowd for a' that.+

Burns, Is there for Honest Poverty.

Rapt—As full, as perfect, in vile man that mourns, As the rapt seraph that adores and burns.

Pope, Essay on Man, ep. i. l. 277.

Rarity—Alas! for the rarity

Of Christian charity
Under the sun.

T. Hood, The Bridge of Sighs.

Rascals—And put in every honest hand a whip, To lash the rascals naked through the world.

SHARS. Othello, act iv. sc. 2.

Rather— Rather than be less,

Cared not to be at all. Milton, Par. Lost, bk. ii. l. 47.

Raw—And raw in fields the rude militia swarms;

Mouths without hands; maintained at vast expense;

In peace a charge, in war a weak defence;

Stout once a month they march, a blustering band,

And ever, but in times of need, at hand.

DRYDEN, Cymon and Iphigenia, 1. 400.

Razors-A fellow in a market town,

Most musical, cried razors up and down.

DR. WOLCOT, Farewell Odes, ode iii.

Razure— 'Gainst the tooth of time

And razure of oblivion.

SHARS. Meas. for Meas. act v. sc. 1.

Read-Read Homer once, and you can read no more,

For all books else appear so mean, so poor;

Verse will seem prose; but still persist to read,

And Homer will be all the books you need.

SHEFFIELD (Duke of Buckingham), Essay on Poetry.

Read-Read, mark, learn, and inwardly digest.

Collect for the Second Sunday in Advent.

[•] Making night hideous.—Shars. Hamlet, act i. sc. 4.

Reading—Reading maketh a full man, conference a ready man, and writing an exact man.

F. Bacon, Essay 1. On Studies.

Reading— Reading what they never wrote;

Just fifteen minutes, huddle up their work,

And with a well-bred whisper close the scene.

Cowfer, The Task, bk. ii. The Timepiece.

Reason—I have no other but a woman's reason:
I think him so, because I think him so.
Shaks. Two Gentlemen of Verona, act i. sc. 2.

Reason—'Tis an odd fellow, I can tell you, as any is in all Wales; he can sing, rhyme with reason, and rhyme without reason, and without reason or rhyme.

GEORGE PEELE, Edward I, Dyce's Ed. p. 383.

Reason—I was promised on a time
To have reason for my rhyme;
From that time unto this season,
I received nor rhyme nor reason.*

Ascribed to Spenser.

Reason—No reason ask, our reason is our will.

J. Marston, Malcontent, act i. sc. 1.

Reason—And shall they scorn Tre, Pol, and Pen, And shall Trelawny die? There's thirty thousand Cornishmen Shall know the reason why.†

Reason—All those instances to be found in history, whether real or fabulous, of a doubtful public spirit, at which morality is perplexed, reason is staggered, and from which affrighted nature recoils, are their chosen and almost sole examples for the instruction of youth.

Burke, First Letter on a Regicide Peace.

You bid your treasurer on a time, To give me reason for my rhyme; But from that time and that season I have had nor rhyme nor reason.

[•] Probably by Charles Churchyard, a contemporary poet, it is thus written:—

Written in 1824 by Rev. R. S. Hawker, vicar of Morwenstow. Afterwards Davies Gilbert, President of the Royal Society, reprinted the entire ballad, believing it to be an ancient one, and Sir Walter Scott regarded it as "the solitary people's song of the seventeenth century." Lord Macanlay quotes the refrain (which is old) accurately in his History of England, chapwill.

Reason—Neither rhyme nor reason can express how much.

Shaks. As You Like It, act iii. sc. 2.

Reason— The insane root

That takes the reason prisoner. Shaks. Macbeth, act i. sc. s.

Reason—On life's vast ocean diversely we sail, Reason the card, but passion is the gale.

Pope, Essay on Man, ep. ii. l. 107.

Reason's pleasure—Reason's whole pleasure, all the joys of sense, Lie in three words,—health, peace, and competence.

Ibid. bk. iv. l. 79.

Rebels—Kings will be tyrants from policy when subjects are rebels from principle.

Burke, On the French Revolution.

Rebuke—Open rebuke is better than secret love. Prov. xxvii. 5

Rich-Rich and rare were the gems she were.

Moore, Irish Melodies.

Rich—Rich gifts wax poor when givers prove unkind.

Shaks. Hamlet, act iii. sc. 1.

Rich-Laws grind the poor, and rich men rule the law.

Collishillo, The Traveller, 1, 386.

Rich—A large and fruitful mind should not so much labour what to speak as to find what to leave unspoken. Rich soils are often to be weeded.

BACON, Letter of Expostulation to Coke.

Rich—But Knowledge to their eyes her ample page,
Rich with the spoils of time, did ne'er unroll.*

GRAY, Elegy in a Country Churchyard.

Riches—Mammon, the least erected Spirit that fell
From Heaven; for even in Heaven his looks and thoughts
Were always downward bent, admiring more
The riches of Heaven's pavement, trodden gold,
Than aught divine or holy else enjoyed
In vision beatific.

Millon, Paradise Lost, bk. i. l. 670.

Rides—Calm and serene he drives the furious blast,
And, pleased th' Almighty's orders to perform,
Rides in the whirkbind and directs the storm.†

Addison, The Campaign, 1. 221.

Ridicule—Ridicule is the test of truth.

Right—I see the right, and I approve it too,

Condemn the wrong, and yet the wrong pursue.

From Ovid's Metamorphoses, Garth, 1751,

vol. ii. bk, vii. l, 20,

Rich with the spoils of nature.
SIR T. BROWNE, Relig. Med. part i. sec. 18.

+ Frequently ascribed to Pope, Dunciad, bk. iii. l. 261:—
Immortal Rich! how calm he sits at ease
'Mid snows of paper, and flerce hail of pease,
And, proud his mistress' orders to perform,
Rides in the whirlwind and directs the storm.

1 "We have, oftener than once, endeavoured to attach some meaning to that aphorism, vulgarly imputed to Shaftesbury, which, however, we can find nowhere in his works, that 'ridicule is the test of truth.'"—Carlyle, Miscell. vol ii, p. 19. The Lord Rector of Edinburgh in recover adds, "But, of all chimeras that ever advanced themselves in the stage of philosophical doctrines, this is, to us, the most formless and purely inconceivable."

Video meliora, proboque; Deteriora sequor. Ovid. Met. lib. vii. 20. Right—The right divine of kings to govern wrong.

Righteous—Be not righteous over much.

Eccles. vii. 16.

Righteousness—Mercy and truth are met together; righteousness and peace have kissed each other.

Psalm lxxxv. 10.

Righteousness-Righteousness exalteth a nation. Prov. xiv. st.

Ring-Ring out wild bells to the wild sky.

TENNYSON, In Memoriam, can. v.

Ring—Ring out old shapes of foul disease,
Ring out the narrowing lust of gold;
Ring out the thousand wars of old,
Ring in the thousand years of peace.

Ring in the valiant men and free,

The larger heart, the kindlier hand;
Ring out the darkness of the land,
Ring in the Christ that is to be.

Rip van Winkle—" Your Epimenides, your somnolent Peter Klaus, since named Rip van Winkle," says Carlyle, in his Miscellanies.—Peter was a goat-herd, who one day was beckoned by a stranger to follow him to a sequestered valley; here he saw a can of wine, which he drank and then fell into a deep sleep. Awakening, he made his way back to the village and found himself grown old—he had been asleep for twenty years. This story Washington Irving has almost bodily appropriated, making the mountains not the Kyffhaüser, but the Caatskill; the country not Germany, but America.

Ripe—From hour to hour, we ripe and ripe,
And then, from hour to hour, we rot and rot,
And thereby hangs a tale. Shaks. As You Like It, act ii. sc. 7.

Rise—Go to your banquet then; but use delight
So as to rise still with an appetite. Herrick, Hesperides, coxxli.

River— She was his life,

The ocean to the river of his thoughts,*

Which terminated all. Byron, The Dream, st. 2.

Rivulet—You shall see a beautiful quarto page, where a neat rivulet of text shall meander through a meadow of margin.+

SHERIDAN, School for Scandal, act i. sc. 1.

Road—Broad and spacious is the road to infernal life; there are enticements and death-bringing pleasures. Cyprian, in Ep.

Road—O life! thou art a galling load Along a rough, a weary road,

Burns, Despondency.

Roads-I think, while zealots fast and frown,

And fight for two or seven,

To wretches such as I.

That there are fifty roads to town

And rather more to Heaven.

W. M. PRAED, Chaunt of ye Brazen Head.

Robbed—He that is robbed, not wanting what is stolen, Let him not know it, and he's not robbed at all.

SHAKS. Othello, act iii. sc. s.

Robbed-The robbed that smiles steals something from the thief.

Ibid. act i. sc. s.

Robbing—By robbing Peter he paid Paul, and hoped to catch larks if ever the heavens should fall.

RABELAIS, bk. i. chap. s.

Robes—Through tattered clothes small vices do appear;
Robes and furred gowns hide all.

SHARS. King Lear, act iv. sc. s.

Rocket—And the final event to himself (Mr. Burke) has been that, as he rose like a rocket, he fell like the stick.

Roderick—Art thou a friend to Roderick?

Scott, The Lady of the Lake, can. iv. st. 30.

Roques—When roques full out, honest men get their own.—In a case before Sir Matthew Hale, the two litigants unwittingly let but that at a former period they had in conjunction leased a ferry to the injury of the proprietor, on which Sir Matthew made the above remark.

Roll-I am not in the roll of common men.

SHAKS. K. Henry IV, part i. act iii. sc. 1.

Roll—Roll on, thou deep and dark blue ocean—roll!

Ten thousand fleets sweep over thee in vain:

Man marks the earth with ruin—his control

Stops with the shore.

Byron, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, can. iv. st. 179.

Roman-My voice is still for war.

Gods! can a Roman senate long debate

Which of the two to choose, slavery or death?

Addison, Cato, act ii. sc. 1.

Roman—This was the noblest Roman of them all.

SHARS. Julius Casar, act v. sc. 5.

Romans—The last of all the Romans, fare thee well.

Ibid. act v. sc. 3.

Rome—If Rome can pardon sins, as Romans hold, And if those pardons can be bought and sold.

It were no sin t'adore and worship Gold.

ROCHESTER, On Rome's Pardon.

Rome—" When at Rome, do as Romans do.".

Cum fueris Romæ, Romano vivito more, Cum fueris alibi, vivito sicut ibi :

because he was to conform to the custom of Smyrna as well as that of Milan, in the respective diocesses."

St. Augustine was in the habit of dining upon Saturday as upon Sunday; but, being puzzled with the different practices then prevailing (for they had begun to fast at Rome on Saturday), he consulted St. Ambrose on the subject. Now at Milan they did not fast on Saturday; and the answer of the Milan saint was this;—

"When I am here, I do not fast on Saturday; when at Rome, I do fast on Saturday.

[&]quot;Quando hic sum, non jejuno Sabbato; quando Romæ sum, jejuno Sabbato." -St. Augustine, ep. xxxvi. To Cisulanus. In Jeremy Taylor's Ductor Dubitantium, 3rd edition, p. 25, we find the following paragraph on case of conscience :-

[&]quot;He that fasted on Saturday in Ionia or Smyrna was a schismatick; and so was he that did not fast at Muan or Rome upon the same day, both upon the same reason:

Romeo.—O Romeo, Romeo! wherefore art thou Romeo?
Shaks. Romeo and Juliet, act ii. sc. 2.

Root-Seeing the root of the matter is found in me. Job xix. 28.

Rose—What's in a name? that which we call a rose By any other name would smell as sweet.

SHARS. Romeo and Juliet, act ii. sc. 2.

Rose—The rose is red, the violet blue,*
The lily's sweet, and so are you.

Old Valentine, 1721.

Rose—The rose is fairest when 'tis budding new,
And hope is brightest when it dawns from fears.

Scorr, The Lady of the Lake, can. iv. st. 1.

Rose—Sire Thopas was a doughty swain,

White was his face as paindemaine [kind of white bread], His lippes red as rose.

CHAUCER, Canterbury Tales, Rime of Sire Tophas, 1. 34.

Roses—Like a vase in which roses have once been distilled, You may break, you may shatter the vase, if you will, But the scent of the roses will hang round it still.

MOORE, Farewell! but whenever you welcome the Hour

Ross-Rise, honest Muse! and sing the man of Ross.

Pore, Moral Essays, ep. iii. l. 250.

Rough—'Tis the same with common natures:

Use 'em kindly, they rebel;

But be as rough as nutmeg-graters, And the rogues obey you well.

A. HILL, Verses written on a window in Scotland.

Round—I will a round, unvarnished tale deliver
Of my whole course of love.
Shaks. Othello, act i. sc. 3.

Rowland—" A Rowland for an Oliver."+

She is the violet,
The daisy delectable,
The columbine commendable,
The jelofer aimiable:
This most goodly floure,
This blossome of fresche coloure.
SKELTON, Philip Sparow.

† These were two of the most famous in the list of Charlemagne's twelve peers; and their exploits are rendered so ridiculously and equally extravagant by the old romancers, that from thence arose that saying amongst our plain and sensible ancestors of giving one a "Rowland for his Oliver," to signify the matching one incredible lie with another.—Thomas Warburton.

Rubies—Some asked me where the rubies grew,
And nothing I did say,

But with my finger pointed to

The lips of Julia.

Souther, From the orig. Pref. to the Vision of Judgment.

There's noue so time as Nelly.

I Situate school, a name first applied by Robert Southey, and often given to a class of writers whose productions are characterized by an impatience of all restraint, an extravagant strain of sentimentality, a presumptions scorn of all moral obligations, as well as of the holiest truths of religion; "they labour to make others as miserable as themestics, by infecting them with a motal surus that eats into the coul. "Werther and Goetz von Berlichingen have produced incalculable effects, which now, indeed, however some departing echo of them may inger in the wreeks of our own moss trooper and Satante schools, do at length all happily he behind us."—Carlyle, Wheeler's Noted Names of Faction

^{*} Allured to brighter worlds and led the way, GOLDSMITS. + Of all the girls that e'er was seen,

Satire—Satire should, like a polish'd razor, keen,
Wound with a touch that's scarcely felt or seen;
Thine is an oyster knife, that hacks and hews;
The rage but not the talent to abuse;
And is in hate what love is in the stews.

LADY M. W. MONTAGU and LORD HERVEY.

Satire—Satire has always shone among the rest,
And is the boldest way, if not the best,
To tell men freely of their foulest faults,
To laugh at their vain deeds, and vainer thoughts.

Dryden, Essay upon Satire, l. 11.

Sinne-Lord, with what care hast thou begirt us round!

Parents first season us, then schoolmasters

Deliver us to laws; they send us bound

To rules of reason, holy messengers,

Pulpits and Sundayes, sorrow dogging sinne,

Afflictions sorted, anguish of all sizes;

Fine nets and stratagems to catch us in;

Bibles laid open, millions of surprises,

Blessings beforehand, tyes of gratefulnesse,

The sound of glorie ringing in our ears;

Without our shame, within our consciences, Angels of grace, eternal hopes and fears:

Yet all these fences and their whole array

One cunning bosome sinne blows quite away.

GEORGE HERBERT, Sinne.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, bk. ix. l. 239.

Smote—Love took up the harp of life, and smote on all its chords with might:

Smote the chord of self, that, trembling, passed in music out of sight.

Tennyson, Locksley Hall.

So-So many worlds, so much to do,

So little done, such things to be.

Tennyson, In Memoriam, laxii.

Soft—I own the soft impeachment.

SHERIDAN, The Rivals, act v. sc. s.

Solemn-And when this solemn mockery is o'er.+

IRELAND, Vortigern, act iii.

^{*} Quoted by Steele in The Guardian, No. 29.
† It was this line, pronounced by the actor with a sneering vehemence, to mark his (Kemble's) disbelief in the authenticity of the play, that led to the discovery of the forgery.

Solitary—Be not solitary, be not idle.

BURTON, Anat. Mel. conclusion.

Some—A ball now issues through the airy tides,
(Some fairy winged it, and some demon guides!)
Parts the fine locks her graceful head that deck,
Wounds her fair car and sinks into her neck.

No winter in thy year.

J. LOGAN, To the Cuckoo.

Song—I never heard the old song of Percy and Douglas that I found not my heart moved more than with a trumpet.

SIR PHILIP SIDNEY, The Defence of Poesy.

Song—Soft words, with nothing in them, make a song.

WALLER, To Creech, 1. 10.

How many a rustic Milton has passed by, Stifling the speechless longings of his heart, In unremitting drudgery and care! How many a vulgar Cato has compelled His energies, no longer tameless then, To mould a pin, or fabricate a nail.

SHELLEY, Mab, sect. 5.

Sophonisba—O Sophonisba! Sophonisba, O!

Thomson, Sophonisba, act iii. sc. 2.

Sorrow—This house is to be let, for life or years;

Her rent is sorrow, and her income tears.

Cupid, 't has long stood void; her bills make known;

She must be dearly let, or let alone.

FRANCIS QUARLES, Emblems, bk. ii. 10.

Sorrow—There came a man, making his hasty moan
Before the sultan Mahmoud on his throne,
And crying out, "My sorrow is my right,

And I will see the sultan, and to-night." L. HUNT, Mahmoud.

Sorrow—Sorrow more beautiful than beauty's self.

Feeling deeper than all thought;

Souls to souls can never teach

What unto themselves was taught. C. P. CRANCH, Stanzas.

Speech-" Speech was given to man to disguise his thoughts."*

Sphere-Loo stars keep not their motion in one sphere.

SHARS. K. Henry IV, part i. act v. sc. 4.

Ils n'employent les paroles que pour déguiser leur pensées.
 VOLTAIRE, Dialogue xiv. Le Chapon et la Poularde.

When Harel wished to put a joke or witticism into circulation, he was in the habit of connecting it with some celebrated name, on the chance of reclaiming it if it took. Thus he assigned to Talleyrand, in the "Nain Janne," the phrase, "Speech was given to man to disguise his thoughts."—FOURNIER, L'Esprit dans l'Histoire.

Spiders—I've lately had two spiders

Crawling upon my startled hopes.

Now, though thy friendly hand has brushed 'em from me,

Yet still they crawl offensive to my eyes;

I would have some kind friend to tread upon 'em.

COLLEY CIBBER, Richard III, altered, act iv. sc. s.

Spirit-Heard melodies are sweet, but those unheard

Are sweeter; therefore, ye soft pipes, play on;

Not to the sensual ear, but, more endeared.

Pipe to the spirit ditties of no tone.

KEATS, Ode to a Grecian Urn.

Spirit—There's nothing ill can dwell in such a temple:

If the ill spirit have so fair a house, Good things will strive to dwell with 't.

Stars—Men at some time are masters of their fates;
The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars,
But in ourselves, that we are underlings.
Shars. Julius Cæsar, act i. sc. 2.

Stars—Oh, she is fairer than the evening air,

Clad in the beauty of a thousand stars.

Marlowe, Faustus (to Helen of Greece).

Started—And then it started like a guilty thing
Upon a fearful summons.

Shaks. Hamlet, act i. sc. 1.

State—What constitutes a state?
SIR WILLIAM JONES, Ode in Imitation of Alcaus.

Mundus universus exercet histrionem.—Petronius Arbiter.

State's will—And sovereign law,—that state's collected will,— O'er thrones and globes elate,

Sits empress, crowning good, repressing ill.

SIR WILLIAM JONES, Ode in Imitation of Alcaus.

States— Take away the sword,

States can be saved without it; bring the pen!

E. B. LYTTON, Richelieu, act ii. sc. 2.

Stay—Stay, oh stay,

Joy so seldom wears a chain

Like this to-night, that oh, 'tis pain,

To break its links so soon. Moore, Songs, Fly not yet.

Stayed—Or with a finger stayed Ixion's wheel. Keats, Hyperion.

Steady -- Steady! steady! the masses of men

Wheel, and fall in, and wheel again

Softly as circles drawn with pen.

LEIGH HUNT, Captain Sword and Captain Pen.

Steal—" Steal my thunder." *

Steal-I like the part you stole the best:

Take courage, man, and steal the rest.

Epigrams, 1720.

Steal—Years, following years, steal something every day;

At last they steal us from ourselves away.

The justice of my quarrel.

Lust's Dominion.

Steel-My man's as true as steel.

SHAKS. Romeo and Juliet, act ii. sc. 4.

Steeple—A man may cry Church! Church! at every word,

With no more piety than other people;

A daw's not reckoned a religious bird

Because it keeps a-cawing from a steeple.

Hood, Ep. to Rae Wilson, Esq.

^{*} D'Israeli says, "The actors refused to perform one of John Dennis's tragedies to empty houses, but they retained some excellent thunder which Dennis had invented; it rolled one night when Dennis was in the pit, and it was applauded. Suddenly starting up, he cried to the audience, 'By ——, they won't act my tragedy, but they steal my thunder.'"—Calamities of Authors.

What may this mean,
That thou, dead corse, again in complete steel,
Revisit'st thus the glimpses of the moon?
SHAKS, Hamlet, act i. sc. 4.

Steeple—At leaving even the most unpleasant people And places, one keeps looking at the steeple.

Byron, Don Juan, can, ii, st. 14.

Step—One step above the sublime makes the ridiculous, and one step above the ridiculous makes the sublime again.*

Stomach's sake.—Drink no longer water, but use a little wine for thy stomach's sake.

1 Tim. v. 23.

Stone-The stone that is rolling can gather no moss,

For master and servant oft changing is loss.

Tusser, Five Hundred Points of Good Husbandry.

Stone-" To leave no stone unturned."+

Probably the original of the celebrated mot given both to Napoleon and to Talleyrand, "Du sublime au ridicule il n'y a qu'un pas."

[†] This may be traced to a response of the Delphic Oracle, given to Polycrates, as the best means of finding a treasure buried by Kerxes' general, Mardonius, on the field of Plates. The Oracle replied, Harra Moor dye, Turn every stone.

Stone-Thus let me live, unseen, unknown,

Thus unlamented let me die;

Steal from the world, and not a stone

Tell where I lie.

Pope, Ode on Solitude.

Stood-So stood Eliza on the wood-crowned height,

O'er Minden's plain, spectatress of the fight.

Sought with bold eye annul the bloody strife

Her dearer self, the partner of her life.

DARWIN, Loves of the Plants.

Stories-Three stories high, long, dull, and old,

As great lord's stories often are.

GEO. COLMAN (the younger), The Maid of the Moor.

Story-Story? God bless you, I have none to tell, sir!

CANNING, Needy Knife-Grinder.

Straining—Straining harsh discords and unpleasing sharps.

SHAKS. Romeo and Juliet, act iii. sc. s.

Stranger—I have been a stranger in a strange land. Exod. ii. 22.

Strawberries—We may say of angling as Dr. Boteler said of strawberries: "Doubtless God could have made a better berry, but doubtless God never did:" and so, if I might be judge, God never did make a more calm, quiet, innocent recreation than angling.

IZAAK WALTON, The Complete Angler, pt. i. ch. 5.

Streamlet—No check, no stay this streamlet fears:

How merrily it goes!

'Twill murmur on a thousand years,

And flow as now it flows. Wordsworth, The Fountain.

Streets-There is a lion in the way; a lion is in the streets.

Prov. xxvi. 13.

Strength—The king's name is a tower of strength.

SHARS. K. Richard III, act v. sc. 3.

Strife-From the strife of tongues.

SHAKS. King Lear, act i. sc. 4.

Strolling—The strolling tribe, a despicable race.

CHURCHILL, Apology, 1. 208.

Strove-I strove with none, for none was worth my strife:

Nature I loved, and after Nature, Art;

I warmed both hands before the fire of life:

It sinks, and I am ready to depart.

W. S. LANDOR, Last Leaves.

Struggling—Stiff-holden shields, far-piercing spears, keen blades, Struggling, and blood, and shrieks. Keats, Endymion.

Strutted.—Strutted, looked big, and swaggered more
Than ever hero did before. Churchill, Ghost, bk. iii. l. 471.

Stubborn— Arm the obdured breast With stubborn patience, as with triple steel.

MILTON, Paradise Lost, bk. ii. l. 568.

Study—By labour and intent study (which I take to be my portion in this life), joined with the strong propense of nature, I might perhaps leave something so written to aftertimes as they should not willingly let it die.

MILTON, The Reason of Church Government, bk. ii.

Stuff—Dost thou love life? then do not squander time; for that is the stuff life is made of.

Ben. Franklin, Poor Richard.

Scott, Woodstock, vol. ii. p. 371.

Such—Such mistress, such Nan, Such master, such man.

Tusser, Five Hundred Points of Good Husbandry, ch. 38.

Suffer—Those who inflict must suffer; for they see
The work of their own heart, and they must be
Our chastisement or our recompense.

Shelley, Julian and Maddalo.

Suffer—Know how sublime a thing it is
To suffer and be strong.

Longfellow, The Light of Stars.

Suit—Lightly from fair to fair he flew, And loved to plead, lament, and sue; Suit lightly won, and short-lived pain, For monarchs seldom sigh in vain.

Scorr, Marmion, can. v. st. s.

Suit—Forget not yet when first began
The weary life ye know, since whan
The suit, the service none tell can;
Forget not yet!

SIR THOMAS WYATT (1503-1642).

Spenser, Faerie Queene, bk. i. can. ix. st. 35.

Sullenness—In those vernal seasons of the year, when the air is calm and pleasant, it were an injury and sullenness against Nature not to go out and see her riches, and partake in her rejoicing with heaven and earth.

MILTON, Of Education.

Sum—"Poor deer," quoth he, "thou mak'st a testament,
As worldlings do, giving thy sum of more
To that which had too much."

SHAKS. As You Like It, act ii. sc. 1.

Sun—There is no new thing under the sun.

Eccles. i. 9,

Sun—But unto you that fear my name shall the Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings.

Mal. iv. 2.

BACON, Advancement of Learning, bk. ii. chap. 2.

Sunday—Does not divide the Sunday from the week.

SHAKS. Hamlet, act i. sc. 1.

Sunday—E'en Sunday shines no Sabbath-day to me.

Pope, Ep. to Dr. Arbuthnot, l. 12.

Sunflower—No, the heart that has truly loved never forgets, But as truly loves on to the close!

As the sunflower turns on her god, when he sets, The same look which she turned when he rose.

Moore, Believe me, if all those endraring, &c.

Sunium's steep—Place me on Sunium's marbled steep.

Where nothing, save the waves and I,

May hear our mutual murmurs sweep;

There, swan-like, let me sing and die.

Byron, Don Juan, can. iii. st. lxxxvi. v. 16.

Sunny—A love that took an early root,

And had an early doom,

Like trees that never grow to fruit.

And early shed their bloom. . .

Like ships that sailed for sunny isles, But never came to shore!

Anonymous, Love.

Sunny—With spots of sunny openings, and with nooks To lie and read in, sloping into brooks.

Sunshine-The tear forgot as soon as shed,

The sunshine of the breast.

Gray, On a Distant Prospect of Eton College.

Supped—I have supped full with horrors.

SHAKS. Macbeth, act v. sc. s.

Surgical—It requires a surgical operation to get a joke well into a Scotch understanding. Their only idea of wit, or rather that inferior variety of this electric talent which prevails in the North, and which, under the name of wur, is so infinitely distressing * to people of good taste, is laughing immoderately at stated intervals. SYDNEY SMITH, Memoir.

Swashing-We'll have a swashing and a martial outside. SHARS. As You Like It, act i. sc. 3.

Swear—Odds life! must one swear to the truth of a song? PRIOR. A Better Answer.

Swear-Romeo. Lady, by yonder blessed moon I swear, That tips with silver all these fruit-tree tops—

Juliet. O, swear not by the moon, the inconstant moon, That monthly changes in her circled orb,

Lest that thy love prove likewise variable.

SHARS. Romeo and Juliet, act ii. sc. 2.

[.] Sydney Smith was fond of this expression, and used it frequently

Sweet-Sweet day, so cool, so calm, so bright,

The bridal of the earth and sky. Geo. HERBERT, Virtue.

With no allaying Thames,
Our carcless heads with roses bound,
Our hearts with loyal flames.
Lo

LOVELACE, To Althea.

Thanked—When I'm not thank'd at all, I'm thank'd enough:
I've done my duty, and I've done no more.

FIELDING, Tom Thumb.

The—Then none was for a party;
Then all were for the state;
Then the great man helped the poor,
And the poor man loved the great;
Then lands were fairly portioned;
Then spoils were fairly sold;
The Romans were like brothers
In the brave days of old.

All at her work the village maiden sings,
And, while she turns the giddy wheel around,
Revolves the sad vicissitudes of things.
R. Giffard, Contemplation.

To—One equal temper of heroic hearts,

Made weak by time and fate, but strong in will,

To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield. TENNYSON, Ulysses.

To— His face is stern,
As one compelled, in spite of scorn,
To teach a truth he could not learn.

E. B. Browning, vol. ii. p. 2.

Toleration—So natural to mankind is intolerance in whatever they really care about, in the minds of almost all religious persons, even in the most tolerant countries, the duty of toleration is admitted with tacit reserves. One person will bear with dissent in matters of Church government, but not of dogma; another can tolerate everybody, short of a Papist or a Unitarian; another, every one who believes in revealed religion; a few extend their charity a little further, but stop at the belief in a God and in a future state. Wherever the sentiment of the majority is still genuine and intense, it is found to have abated little of its claim to be obeyed.

John Stuart Mill.

Toll—Toll for the brave!

The brave that are no more!

All sunk beneath the wave,
Fast by their native shore.

COWPER, On the Loss of the Royal George.

The world too glad and free. Hervey, The Devil's Progress.

Torrent—So the loud torrent and the whirlwind's roar
But bind him to his native mountains more.

Goldsmith, The Traveller, 1. 207.

Torrent—Where is the man who has the power and skill To stem the torrent of a woman's will?

For if she will, she will, you may depend on't;

And if she won't, she won't; so there's an end on't.*

Torrent—The torrent's smoothness, ere it dash below.

CAMPBELL, Gertrude, part iii. st. 5.

Tongue—Pray, goody, please to moderate the rancour of your tongue;
Why flash those sparks of fury from your eyes?

Remember, when the judgment's weak, the prejudice is strong.

O'HARA, Midas, act i. sc. s.

Tongue—My liege, the tongue of true obedience
Must not gainsay his sovereign's repose.
By heaven, I will not kiss the cheek of sleep
Till I have fetched those traitors to the court.

Byron, Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, can. iii. st. 113.

World—No: the world must be peopled.

Shaks, Much Ado about Nothing, act ii. sc. s.

World—World, in thy ever busy mart
I've acted no unnoticed part,
Would I resume it? oh, no!

Four acts are done, the jest grows stale;

The waning lamps burn dim and pale,

And reason asks, Cui bono? JAMES SMITH, Poem on Chigwell.

World—No; I would rather share your tear than any other's glee,
For, though you're nothing to the world, you're all the world to me.

An American Poetess.

World—The world is too much with us; late and soon, Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers.

Would-She only said, "My life is dreary,

He cometh not," she said;

She said, "I am aweary, aweary,

I would that I were dead." TENNYSON, Mariana, Poems, p. 9.

Would-Godiva! not for countless tomes

Of war's or kingcraft's leaden hist'ry

Would I thy charming legend lose,

Or view it in the bloodless hues

Of fabled myth or myst'ry.

R. B. BROUGH, Songs of the Gov. Classes.

Wouldst-Nay, dearest, nay: if thou wouldst have me paint

The home to which, could love fulfil its prayers,

This hand would lead thee, listen!

E. L. Bulwer, Lady of Lyons.

^{*} Generally quoted, " to be wise above that which is written."

YE-YOUTH.

E-How Ye-Ye

- Ye critics, say
How poor was this to Pindar's style!
Prior, Burlesque of Boileau's Ode.

Ye—Ye free-born sons, Britannia's boast, Firm as your rock-surrounded coast,

Ye sovereigns of the sea,
Assist uphold your Church and State,
Your great men good, your good men great,
Awe all abroad, at home unite,
And jolly join in faction's spite,
Then they my friendly review free.

Then, then, my friends, you're free. DIBDIN, Sea Songs.

Yesterday—The same dull sound; the same dull lack
Of lustre in the level gray:
It seems like yesterday come back
With his old things, and not to-day.

OWEN MEREDITH, Wanderer.

Yet—Oh, yet we trust that somehow good
Will be the final goal of ill,

Yron—What yron courage ever could endure
To worke such outrage on so faire a creature!
Spenser, Faerie Queene, bk. iv. can. vi. st. 17.

ZEAL-ZEALOUSLY.

EAL—Tell zeal, it lacks devotion;
Tell love, it is but lust;
Tell time, it is but motion;
Tell flesh, it is but dust!
And wish them not reply,
For thou must give the lie.

Jos. Sylvester, The Lye, Attrib. to Sir W. Raleigh.

Zeal—So shall they build me altars in their zeal,
Where knaves shall minister and fools shall kneel;
Where faith may mutter o'er her mystic spell
Written in blood, and bigotry may swell
The sail he spreads for heaven with blasts from hell.
Moore, Lalla Rookh, Veiled Prophet.

Dorset to Lord Ed. Howard.

Alliteration—Who often, but without success, have prayed For apt alliteration's artful aid.*

CHURCHILL, Proph. of Fam. 1. 85.

^{*} A satire on Mason's poetry, which, like Virgil's celebrated "Validas in viscera vertite vires (En. vi. 834)," deals in alliteration; e. g.

And vamly venturous sour on waxen wing,—
This let me learn, and learning let me live.

Amaryllis—Alas! what boots it with incessant care
To tend the homely, slighted shepherd's trade,
And strictly meditate the thankless Muse?
Were it not better done, as others use,
To sport with Amaryllis in the shade,
Or with the tangles of Neæra's hair?
Milton, Lyc. ll. 64-69.

Amusements—" Life would be tolerable but for its amusements."

Crow-The ornament of beauty is suspect,

A crow that flies in heaven's sweetest air.

SHAKESPEARE, Sonnet lxx.

Curses are like little chickens—Plagiarized by Bulwer Lytton in the Lgdy of Lyons. Southey derived the epigraph of his Kehama—Curses like young chickens always come home to roost—from an uncle named Tyler, whose chief occupations appear to have been sitting in the warmth, chewing tobacco, swilling ale, and walking to Bristol twice a week to be shaved for a penny. Coleridge gave the Greek dress to the proverb, but the source is mysteriously indicated on the title-page.

Life and Letters of Southey, p. 200.

Crushed—Truth crushed to earth shall rise again:
The eternal years of God are hers;
But error wounded writhes in pain,
And dies among her worshippers.

Will find occasion to forbear;

And something every day they live

To pity, and perhaps forgive. Cowper, Mutual Forbear. 1. st.

Forget-Pox on't, quoth Time to Thomas Hearne,

Whatever I forget, you learn.

Answer by Mr. Polyglott.

Damn it, quoth Hearne, in furious pet,

Whate'er I learn, you soon forget.

RICHARD WEST, E. of Oxford's Works, vol. i. p. 204.

Fortune—Our fortune rolls as from a smooth descent,

And from the first impression takes the bent:

But if unseized, she glides away like wind,

And leaves repenting folly far behind.

DRYDEN, Absalom and Achitophel, pt. i. l. 256.

Fortune-A good man's fortune may grow out at heels.

SHARS. King Lear, act ii. sc. 2.

Fortune-Good unexpected, evil unforescen,

Appear by turns, as fortune shifts the scene; Some, raised aloft, come tumbling down amain,

And fall so hard they bound and rise again.

LORD LANSDOWNE, Walpole N. A., p. 442.

France, sweet enemy-Having this day my horse, my hand, my lance.

Guided so well that I obtained the prize

Both by the judgment of the English eyes

And of some sent from that sweet enemy, France.

Flunkies—And flunkies shall lead you wherever you gae.

Auld Robin Gray.

Flunkies are footmen, personal attendants, men at the haunch or side, from the old French flanchier. Quar. Rev. vol. 79. Carlyle, Thackeray and Kingsley have used the words flunkey, flunkeyism and flunkeydom, as terms of reproach and contempt.

HERBERT, Jac. Pru.

Gift—Heaven's last best gift, my ever-new delight.

Paradise Lost, bk, v, l, 18,

God-How can the less the greater comprehend?

Or finite reason reach infinity?

For what could fathom God were more than he.

DRYDEN, Rel. Laici, Il. 39-41.

"God crects a house of Prayer"—(note to p. 261.) Defoe was probably acquainted with the old translation of Luther's Colloquia Mensalia, by Captain Bell, London, 1652, in which occurs the sentence: "For where God built a church, there the Devil would also build a chapel. Thus the Devil is ever God's ape." Table-Talk, sect. lxvii.

Godless Colleges—Applied to the Irish scheme of education in the year 1831 by Sir Robert Inglis, because the church of England was openly rebuffed, and the method adopted in 1873 by Mr. Gladstone, of favouring Romanism by excluding all religious teaching, was adopted. Sir Robert's correct words were, "A gigantic scheme of godless education."

Gold—All that glisters is not gold,

Often have ye heard that told.*

SHAKS. Merchant of Venice, act ii. sc. 8.

Good old cause—The homely beauty of the good old cause Is gone; our peace, our fearful innocence,
And pure religion breathing household laws.

COOKE'S Hesiod, Works and Days, book i. l. 68.

The poet declares that if man were wise, very little labour or trouble would suffice to neurish and clothe him, that the wants of life are few, but that the gods having denied this knowledge to men, "how much the half is better than the whole," in revenge for the crime of Prometheus who stole fire from Heaven, all the race is punished.

GRAY.

A mountain in Bœotia, sacred to Apollo and the muses, whence flowed two fountains, Hippocrene and Aganippe. Helicon is also a stream of Macedonia; hence the mountain is sometimes confused with the stream, and hasty critics blamed the author of the disputed Milton poem for an error in these lines which was their own.

And whilst his doom they think upon, Make their own tears their Helicon.

Bayard Series, vol. 8. l. 18. p. 200.

^{*} I seize this opportunity of correcting the deep-rooted mistake which attributes these lines to Lord Byron. They were composed at my father's—Mr. Thomas Hope's—seat, the Deepdene, Surrey, by Miss Catherine M. Fanshawe, a well-known literary spinster of the past generation. As I am writing this, the original MS. stands open before me, contained in the "Deepdene Album" (a very curious collection of literary autographs), headed "Enigma written at the Deep Dene. 1816," and signed "C. M. F." I have a distinct recollection of hearing, while a child, my father, who died in 1831, speaking of the misapprehension which assigned that enigms to Byron. I may add that the first line runs in Miss Fanshawe's original—"'Twas in Heaven pronounced, and 'twas whisper'd in Hell."—A. J. B. Beresford-Hope. Builder, Nov. 1866.

Hell-Hell is paved with good intentions; quoted at p. 193 as from Boswell's Life of Johnson, 14 April, 1775, is referred to by Coleridge, Omniana, p. 359, as "Baxter's famous saying."

Human creatures' lives—(note to p. 208.) A similar thought is in a famous old Scotch song by Neil Gow:—

Wha'll buy my caller herrin'?

O, you may ca' them vulgar farin',

Wives and mithers baith despairin'

Ca' them lives o' men.

Humphrey Duke of Gloster—See reference to in Shakspere, Henry VI. 2, p. 1. "To dine with Duke Humphrey," a frequent phrase with the comic dramatists of Charles II. Duke Humphrey was buried at St. Albans, but there was a report that a monument was to be erected in Old St. Paul's, and a nameless statue in Paul's Walk was called Duke Humphrey. Thereat sponges who caught at any invitation, poor wits without dinner, and general loungers tarried while others dined. To dine therefore with Duke Humphrey was to go without a dinner.

Byron, Childe Harold, can. iv. st. liii.

In durance vile. C. Kenrick, Falstaff's Wedding, act i. sc. 2.

Kenrick wrote in 1766, and seems to have borrowed and improved the phrase from Pistol's description of Sir John: "In base durance and contagious," 2 Hen. IV. act v. sc. 5. After Kenrick Burns lays violent hands on the phrase, about the year 1793:—

" In durance vile" here must I wake and weep,

And all my frowsy couch in sorrow steep;

The straw where many a rogue has lain before,

And vermin'd gipsies littered heretofore.

Light—(note to p. 169.) When love first taught a monarch to be wise,

And Gospel light first beamed from Bullen's eyes.

[These lines are a fragment, preserved by Mason as too beautiful to be lost, and intended to form part of a poem on the alliance between Education and Government by Gray. The reference is therefore partially incorrect.]

Limited monarchy—This phrase must be of early date, since Sidney (Arcadia, beginning of book iii.) says, "he could set no bounds upon his happiness, nor be content to give desire a kingdom, but that it must be an unlimited monarchy."

Lion— Now half appeared
The tawny lion, pawing to get free

His hinder parts. Milton, Paradise Lost, bk. vii. 1. 463.

" Live the life."

OLIPHANT, Piccadilly Papers.

Lost to sight—This line, which has been the puzzle of all quotation finders, and has escaped the longest memory, is said by a correspondent of "Harper's Bajae" (an American magazine) to have been written by Ruthven Jenkins in the Greenwich Magazine for Marines (?) in 1701 or 1702 (!). We give a few lines of what we suspect is a mere hoax:—

Perchance, all desolate and forlorn,
These eyes shall miss thee many a year;
But unforgotten every charm—
Though lost to sight, to mem'ry dear.

Love—What is love, but youth and hope embracing and so seen as one?

Mountain and Mahomet—If the hill will not come to Mahomet, Mahomet will go to the hill. Quoted by Bacon, Essay 12.

Mouths, useless—A phrase much in use during the siege of l'aris, 1870-71, when the courtezans and others not earning money or contributing to the defence of the city were banished by proclamation. The idea conveyed may be found in Dryden's Cymon and Iphigenia:—

Mouths without hands, maintained at vast expense, In peace a charge, in war a weak defence.

Dryden is sneering at our "rude militia."

Miditude—Sidney in the third book of Arcadia has this expression, which in my edition I have noted as borrowed by Massinger and Scott; see also Swinish Multitude.

Nobility—(note to p. 242.) "Let laws and learning, art and commerce die," This seems to be an exaggeration of a much nobler sentiment attributed to Mr. Windham, "Perish commerce, let the Constitution live" (on his reclection for Norwich, 1794); the sentence brought much obloquy on Windham, but its real author was Mr. Harding.

Pray, remained to—(note to p. 155.) A curious parallel is to be found in Dryden's Britannia Rediciva, a poem on the birth of the Prince of Wales, the first Pretender. Of the prayer of the people, the poet says:—

Preventing angels met it half the way And sent us back to praise who came to pray.

Pray, Goody, please to moderate the rancour of your tongue;
Why flash those sparks of fury from your eyes?
Remember, when the judgment's weak the prejudice is strong.

KANE O'HARA, Midas, act i. sc. iii.

Prayers, son of many—Probably this phrase, which is biblical, finds an echo in the phrase—"the son of many tears;" St. Ambrose assured Monica, the mother of St. Augustine, that her many tears for her son would effectually save him. Filius tantarum lachrymarum non peribit, said St. Ambrose.

Purloins—Perverts the prophets and purloins the psalms.

And the heart that is soonest awake to the flowers

Is always the first to be touched by the thorns.

MOORE, Melodies, Oh, think not.

Throne—Something behind the throne greater than the King himself.

CHATHAM, Speech, 2 March, 1770, on Lord Craven's Motion for an Address to His Majesty, &c. CHATHAM, Correspondence, vol. iii. p. 422, London, 1839.

Time—It was the saying of a politic prince, Time and he would get the better of any two others. To which Lord Oxford made this answer:—

Time and I 'gainst any two, Chance and I 'gainst Time and you.

POPE, Letter to Edward Blount.

Time tries all—(note to p. 317.) Conf. Seneca, de Ira, xi. 22. "Dandum semper est tempus—veritatem dies aperit."

Tongue-And prayer, man's rational prerogative.

Wordsworth, Eccl. Son. xxxiii. p. 93, vol. iv.

Travellers-Well, you travellers see strange things.

CENTLIVEC, Bold Stroke, act 10, 8c. 1.

Treason—Treason doth never prosper; what's the reason?
For if it prosper, none dare call it treason.

SIR J. HARRINGTON, Epigrams, 1633.

Trivial round—The trivial round, the common task,

Furnish us all we ought to ask;

Room to deny ourselves, a road

To bring us daily nearer God.

Keble, Christian Year.

Truth—I have been but a child playing on the sea shore, now finding some pebble rather more agreeably variegated than another, while the immense ocean of Truth extended itself unexplored before me.

SIR ISAAC NEWTON, told in a MS. by Conduit, Life of Newton.

Tweedle-dum, &c. - Some say, compared to Buonocini,

That Mynheer Handel's but a ninny;

Others aver that he to Handel

Is scarcely fit to hold a candle:

Strange, all this difference should be

'Twixt tweedle-dum and tweedle-dee.

J. Byrom, Miscellanies. Also ascribed to Swift.

GLINESS—Nothing keeps me in such awe as perfect beauty;—now there is something consoling and encouraging in ugliness.

R. B. SHERIDAN, Duenna, act ii. sc. 2.

Urns—The dead, but scept'red sovereigns, who still rule
Our spirits from their urns. Byron, Manfred, act iii. sc.

ANISH'D hand—But O! for the touch of a vanish'd hand,

And the sound of a voice that is still.

TENNYSON, Song: Break, break

Victim—Led like a victim to my death I'll go,
And dying, bless the hand that gave the blow.

DRYDEN (?).

Virtue-Virtue never grows old.

HERBERT, Jac. Prud.

Virtue—Oh, Virtue! I have followed you through life, and find you at last but a shade.

Euripides, quoted by Brutus, dying at Philippi.

Virtue—What cannot beauty joined with virtue gain?

DRYDEN, Cock and Fox, 1. 82.

Virtue oppressed—Virtue is like precious odours, most fragrant where they are incensed or crushed; for prosperity doth best discover vice, but adversity doth best discover virtue.

BACON, Essay v. Of Adversity.

Vision—'Twas but a vision still, and visions are but vain.

DRYDEN, Cock and Fox, 1. 242.

Vital spark—(note to p. 300.) This ode seems to have been imitated by Pope from Flaxman, a poet of the days of Charles II., who has these lines:

When on my sick bed I languish, Full of sorrow, full of anguish, Fainting, gasping, trembling, crying, Panting, groaning, speechless, dying, Methinks I hear some gentle spirit say, Be not fearful—come away.

AIT—"All things come round to him that will but wait." Longrellow, Wayside Inn. A verse of which every foot is a word, which seems to be a translation from the French proverb, "Tout vient a point pour celui qui sait attendre." See N. and Q. 4th ser. xii. 269.

Want—Perpetual emptiness! unceasing change!
No single volume paramount, no code,
No master spirit, no determined road;
But equally a want of books and men.
Wordsworth, Son. xiii. vol. iii. p. 59.

- Whom, &c.—Of whom, and what, and where, and whence.

 BUTLER, Hudibras, bk. i. can. s.
- Wiredrawing—Wiredrawing his words to a contrary sense.
 FLORIO, Montaigne's Ess. bk. 2. xi. p. 223.
- Wolf, troubles the—It never troubles the wolf how many the sheep be. Virgin, quoted by Bacon, Essay 20.
- Women must weep.—Men must work, and women must weep.

 Kingsley, Song: The Three Fishers.
- Wonders—Prevailing poet, whose undoubting mind Believed the magic wonders which he sung.

COLLINS. On Fairfax.

- Words of Mercury—The words of Mercury are harsh after the songs of Apollo.

 Shaks. Love's Labour Lost, act v. sc. ii.
- Work—Now, by St. Paul, the work goes bravely on.
 CIBBER, Richard III. act iii. sc. 1.
- World—The world was all before them where to choose
 Their place of rest, and Providence their guide.

 Milton, Paradise Lost, bk. xii. 1. 646.
- World—I called the New World into existence to redress the balance of the Old.

 The King's Message (Dec. 12, 1766).
- World—I have not loved the world, nor the world me.

 I have not flattered its rank breath, nor bow'd

 To its idolatries a patient knee.

Byron, Ch. Ha. c. iii. s. exiii.

Worlds so many—So many worlds, so much to do; So little done, such things to be.

Tennyson, In Mem. Ixxii.

Worse appear the better reason—This, as has been suggested to me by Dr. Ramage, is a translation of the following passage in Quintilian (Let. ii. cap. 17, sect. 1, ed. Rollin).

Nam et Socrati objiciunt comici docere eum quomodo pejorem causam meliorem faciat.

For comic writers (Aristophanes in the Clouds) charge Socrates with making "the worse appear the better reason."

ELLOW—All seems infected that th' infected spy,
As all looks yellow to the jaundiced eye.*

Pope, Criticism, p. ii. l. sss.

Youth—In my hot youth when George III. was king.

Byron, Dan Juan, can. i. st. 212.

* In forming a judgment, lay your hearts void of foretaken opinions, else whatsoever is done or said will be measured by a wrong rule, like them who have the jaundice, to whom everything appeareth yellow.

SIR PHILIP SIDNEY, Arcadia.
